Jenkins Takes a New Ten-mile Bicycle Record.

A Turfite Run Over and Very Badly Injured.

Opening Events at Sheephead Bay—The Britannia Again Beats the Navaho—A Ten-minute Ball Game Ends in a Tie.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SANTA BARBARA, Aug. 26.—(Special.) The last day in the Santa Barbara races was the best of all, though the talent was not hard again.

The ten-mile bicycle race was very exciting, but the handicapper, Smith of Los Angeles, was censured for giving too heavy handicaps. Jenkins and Cromwell, two Los Angeles cracks, sold hot favorites in the pools, although they were scratch men. H. L. Williams of Santa Paula had a 300-yard handicap, and won the race handily in 30:41. Jenkins succeeded in breaking the Coast ten-mile bicycle record, his time being 31:11.

From scratch Jenkins beat that time four minutes in a practice spin, but the track was very badly cut up by the horses today. Cromwell quit on the sixth mile, as he saw the handicap was too heavy for him to win. Simpson, a Santa Barbara boy, took second place in this, his second race. Cyclist Crawford ran against a boy just under the wire and was hurt quite badly, and broke his wheel.

Betting ran high on the two-year-old five-furlong dash. All Baba, J. M. Price's bay stallion, by J. Daniels, sold in the pools for $20. The bay colt Cherokee, by Fellowsham, for $15, and the field for $5.

When the going started at the five-furlong dash, Lottie L., Charley Tucker's little bay mare, by Sid, won the front, cut Cherokee out and won the dash in 1:04. All Baba a good second and Cherokee third. Lottie was a 35 to 1 shot, and the bookies felt sick. Those who have played the field throughout the season finished the week from $100 to $1000 ahead.

It was generally conceded that Andy, a brown gelding by Dashwood, had a sure thing in the postponed 2:20 pace, as he sold favorite and had two heats to the bay gelding Fred Mason's one when darkened out the racing on Friday. The judges scented what they thought was crookedness, by the peculiar drive Charley Borgmest made in the last heat on Friday, and took Fred Mason away from him. Mason won this afternoon in two straight heats, winning the second by a nose from Thera, who made a splendid drive down the homestretch.

Having been hit hard in three straight heats this afternoon, the talent tried to recoup in the 2:20 trot. But D. Rice's speedy stallion, Gossiper, had too easy a thing, and the tempting odds offered against him met with no takers. Durfee drove his entry, winning as he pleased in slow time. He rode a very promising stallion last year, fought hard with Ben Corbett, the Santa Paula stallion, for second place today, but lost it.

The sports here will go down in a body to Huemene, where the race meet begins on Tuesday. Most of the horses entered here will also go to Huemene. Louis Raffour of San Francisco was run over by Tiempo on the home stretch. Raffour put his head over the fence, and Tiempo, running close to the rail, struck it and dragged him out upon the track and ran over him. Raffour is very dangerously hurt. It is thought sustained concussion of the brain.

Summary: Bicycle, ten-mile handicap: H. L. Williams, 300 yards, won; Simpson, 1/2 of a mile, second; Percival, 1/2 of a mile, third; Jenkins, scratch, fourth; Crawford, 1/2 of a mile, fifth; Cromwell, scratch, dropped out.

KILLED HIMSELF. A Placerville Undertaker Commits Suicide.

Money Troubles the Supposed Cause—Sacriment to Have a Pure Water Supply—A Bank Refuses to Surrender Its Books.

By Telegraph to The Times. PLACERVILLE, Aug. 26.—(By the Associated Press.) Edward B. Morris, an undertaker and furniture dealer in this city, committed suicide this evening by shooting himself through the heart with a revolver.

The deed was committed in his store in the presence of his aged mother, with whom he was holding a conversation, presumably about money matters. The deceased was 27 years of age and leaves a widow and child.

A BANKING POINT. A Tacoma Bank Declines to Surrender Its Books.

TACOMA (Wash.), Aug. 26.—(By the Associated Press.) General Bank Examiner Clary today attempted to take possession of the books of the Washington National Bank, which went into voluntary liquidation by permission of the Comptroller of the Currency.

The bank officers refused to deliver the books, claiming the bank had sufficient funds to pay all claims, and that when it went into liquidation it ceased to be under the Comptroller's charge. The United States Court will be asked for a restraining order to prevent Clary from taking charge.

SECRETARY PIDWELL. A Well-known San Franciscan Arrested for Embezzlement.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—(By the Associated Press.) C. T. Pidwell, for many years secretary of the Odd Fellows' building, was arrested today on a charge of embezzling $4000. It is charged that he withheld rent paid for rooms in the building by various lodges.

He is well-known among the Odd Fellows throughout the State.

A NEEDED CHANGE. Sacramento Propose to Be Furnished With Pure Water.

Terrible Disclosure Made in Court.

Some Evidence in Divorce Suit Proceedings.

What an Intoxicated Husband Told His Wife.

A Wealthy Rancher to Be Poisoned—Letters Between the Guilty Parties—Death and Divorce the Preliminaries to a New Union.

By Telegraph to The Times.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—(By the Associated Press.) In a bill for divorce, filed in the Superior Court today by Mrs. Bella H. Hassett against William E. Hassett of this city, the most astounding charges are made. It is alleged, and the allegations are supported by written evidence, that Hassett conspired with the wife of a wealthy farmer, named Stone, now living near Nashua, Iowa, to murder Stone, get a divorce from his own wife and then marry the widow Stone, who, by the letters attached, was more than ready to put her own husband out of the way that she might marry Hassett.

Hassett comes from a wealthy family in Jefferson, Iowa. His father, who was a wealthy hardware dealer, died some time ago and left him from $50,000 to $75,000. He was married to Miss Chicago on a trip to the O. About one year ago, while Hassett was traveling through Iowa, he became acquainted with Mrs. Stone, who was living with her husband, a wealthy farmer in Nashua.

The woman, the bill alleges, became enamored of Hassett, and it is charged, made the proposition to make away with her husband, who was past middle age and an invalid. It is alleged that the plot, as evidenced by the letters attached to the bill, was to bring Stone to Chicago on a trip to the World's Fair, and place a quantity of poison in the medicine he was taking. The couple hoped to clutch themselves, it is said, from the clutches of the law by giving out that the death of Stone was from natural causes.

Mrs. Hassett became aware of the so-called intrigue through an accident. Not long ago her husband came home intoxicated and a quarrel arose, resulting in the defendant telling his wife he had decided to leave her. She was more than she, and that if she did not believe it she would find a number of number of letters in his trunk which would prove it. Mrs. Hassett opened the trunk while her husband was away from home and found the contents, and immediately placed the matter in the hands of her attorneys, who prepared papers for a divorce.

The first letter is dated Nashua, Iowa, June 28, in which the preliminaries to the divorce are discussed. She reached Chicago early on the following Sunday morning and to attend the fair on July 9, when she was to administer something that would make her husband sick, and then, if death resulted, attribute it to some epidemic. She then announced the change of time in starting. In this letter Mrs. Stone asked Hassett to procure some P. acid and morphine. The letter ends with a caution to Hassett to destroy all letters. The letters are signed "Stellie," and are thickly sprinkled with terms of endearment.

When Hassett became aware in his sober moments that his wife had obtained possession of the letters he made an attempt to kill her, it is said, and was only prevented from doing so by the interference of the neighbors. He was in Chicago tonight, but could not be located. Mrs. Hassett was seen tonight, and admitted all allegations contained in the bill. When she was asked to take the life of Stone was frustrated or not could not be ascertained tonight. It is thought by the attorneys that Mr. and Mrs. Stone were in Chicago on the night of July 4, but nothing definite could be learned.

HIGHWAYMEN. A Prominent Citizen Held Up and Killed by Them.

DANVILLE (Va.), Aug. 26.—(By the Associated Press.) Last night, as Henry Helmick, one of the most prominent citizens of the county was returning home from church with his wife, twelve miles north of this city, four highwaymen attacked him. In the struggle they shot him dead. The entire neighborhood and the police of this city are now searching for them. They held up three other parties on the same road previous to the attack on Helmick.

Guaranteed an Award. CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—For $10,000 Mrs. E. R. Harmon, alias Mrs. Harmon Anson, today offered to guarantee a Russian exhibitor a medal of the first class and a certificate of honor, concerning her ability to perform all she promised she referred to Commissioner Beason of Oklahoma and the commissioner from Wyoming. The consequence was the arrest of Mrs. Harmon.

Cut Throats. BALTIMORE (Md.), Aug. 26.—G. F. Reed of North Baltimore, while drunk this morning, cut his wife's throat and his own. Both are dying.

Admission Day in Chicago. From the following extract from a private letter to one of the committee in this city from one of the managers of the exposition, it would appear that great preparations are being made for the celebration of Admission day by Californians in that city.

Representatives of the State are planning a great time, a series of floats representing California history, from the time of the mission fathers to the present day, and a float representing each county; besides this the distribution of four or five carloads of fresh fruit will make the people believe we have returned to our much-talked hospitality.

Supply of Dried Fruits. J. C. Maslin of Chicago, an extensive buyer of dried fruit, is at the Hotel Monticello. He reports the supply of California fruits this year as unusually large, and says that the prunes from the Santa Clara Valley alone will more than equal the total product of the State for previous years.

Arraigned for Robbery. Clyde Sheets, Margin Devine and William Devine were arraigned in the Police Court yesterday on a charge of robbery. Their preliminary examination was set for next Thursday. They are believed to be the men who, about a week ago, assaulted and robbed a Chinaman near Vernon.

Emperor William Would Have Preferred Another.

Federation Secrets Jealously Guarded by Germany.

The Naples Anti-French Riots—A Roman Palace Destroyed by Fire—Timber Leads in Ten French Communes Burned.

By Telegraph to The Times.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The succession of the Duke of Edinburgh to the dukedom of the duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha dominates political interest in Germany, and widely divergent rumors in regard to the matter are everywhere circulated. Putting all these aside, there is no doubt that the succession of the English Duke to the dukedom of the duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha is a quiet acceptance by the duchies concerned.

It is probable that Emperor William would have preferred that Prince Alfred, the only son of the Duke of Edinburgh, should have succeeded Duke Ernest. Indeed, it is believed that His Majesty hoped Alfred might induce his uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, to waive his claim to the succession. His Majesty is reported to have told the Duke that under any circumstances a regency would be impossible, and that he must make the throne himself, or abandon all connection with the duchies. Finding the Duke resolute in his determination to forego none of his rights, and also finding the latter's mother, Queen Victoria, supporting him in his attitude, the Emperor put off the decision as long as possible, and acquiesced to the Duke's succeeding to the throne.

The extremist press, Radical and Conservative alike, are indulging in Anglophobia criticism. They harp upon the inexpediency of admitting a relatively powerful foreign house into the secrets of the federation. Nothing is publicly known as to the disposition of the late Duke's property. It has always been supposed that he was immensely wealthy. Certainly his estates are extensive enough. Apart from the three castles and shooting lodges owned by him in Germany, he was the proprietor of one of the finest shooting domains in Europe, situated in the Austrian Tyrol. All of these properties are entailed and pass to his successor.

A cyclone passed over Eastern Silesia on Thursday last. One hundred houses at Neustadt, Kozel and Oberglon were unroofed, crops destroyed and several persons killed.

THE NEAPOLITAN RIOTS. The Action of the Police is to Be Rigorously Investigated.

ROME, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The riots during the past few days in Naples, which have generally been attributed to striking cab-drivers, have a wider and deeper significance. The troubles had their origin in the anti-French agitation following the Algeiras Moor massacre of Italians by Frenchmen, and the cabmen took advantage of the situation to strike and foment trouble.

The police, it is charged, added to the seriousness of the situation by the brutality they displayed. The troops who were dispatched to the city quelled the riots. The city is now quiet, and vehicles are beginning to run as usual. An inquiry into the action of the police will be held.

EXTENSIVE FIRES. Timber Lands in Ten French Communes Burned Over.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) Extensive forest fires are raging in the vicinity of the Monte de Marsan, the capital of the Department of Landes. They have been burning for days, and have consumed the timber lands in ten communes. Among the places burned over are the Solferino estate, formerly the property of ex-Empress Eugenie. Up to this time the losses amount to 1,100,000.

The Caffarelli Palace Burned. ROME, Aug. 26.—The Negroni Caffarelli palace burned this morning. The occupants had to be rescued with ladders. Among them were the Doge's auditor and the Portuguese Consul and family.

REV. JACOB KANTROWITZ. His Death a Severe Loss to the Jewish Community.

The Jewish ministry has recently sustained a severe loss in the passing away of the well known rabbi, Rev. Jacob Kantrowitz of New York, who, after a most active life in the cause of Judaism, died at the age of 70.

Kantrowitz was the uncle of Mr. Kantrowitz of this city, and was known on both sides of the Atlantic as one of the ablest exponents of the faith.

The reverend gentleman had a very interesting history. At the age of 8 he entered upon his life's vocation, and as the "boy cantor," with ten of the immediate members of his family as chorists, he created an immense sensation in religious circles, and his travels through Poland and Germany were of a most successful nature. Devoting himself to the study of music, he and his family, as the "Russian Singers," made a tour of the continent, appearing at the most famous musical festivals, and by special invitation before the courts of Holland and Belgium. After a series of concerts in England he was elected cantor of the Manchester Hebrew Congregation, which position he held for several years, until he embarked for the United States. Here he became the cantor of the Beth Israel Congregation in New York, where he labored for many years in the cause of his religion.

ABOUT A DUKEDOM.

Edinburgh's Accession is Not Satisfactory.

Emperor William Would Have Preferred Another.

Federation Secrets Jealously Guarded by Germany.

The Naples Anti-French Riots—A Roman Palace Destroyed by Fire—Timber Leads in Ten French Communes Burned.

By Telegraph to The Times.

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The succession of the Duke of Edinburgh to the dukedom of the duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha dominates political interest in Germany, and widely divergent rumors in regard to the matter are everywhere circulated. Putting all these aside, there is no doubt that the succession of the English Duke to the dukedom of the duchies of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha is a quiet acceptance by the duchies concerned.

It is probable that Emperor William would have preferred that Prince Alfred, the only son of the Duke of Edinburgh, should have succeeded Duke Ernest. Indeed, it is believed that His Majesty hoped Alfred might induce his uncle, the Duke of Edinburgh, to waive his claim to the succession. His Majesty is reported to have told the Duke that under any circumstances a regency would be impossible, and that he must make the throne himself, or abandon all connection with the duchies. Finding the Duke resolute in his determination to forego none of his rights, and also finding the latter's mother, Queen Victoria, supporting him in his attitude, the Emperor put off the decision as long as possible, and acquiesced to the Duke's succeeding to the throne.

The extremist press, Radical and Conservative alike, are indulging in Anglophobia criticism. They harp upon the inexpediency of admitting a relatively powerful foreign house into the secrets of the federation. Nothing is publicly known as to the disposition of the late Duke's property. It has always been supposed that he was immensely wealthy. Certainly his estates are extensive enough. Apart from the three castles and shooting lodges owned by him in Germany, he was the proprietor of one of the finest shooting domains in Europe, situated in the Austrian Tyrol. All of these properties are entailed and pass to his successor.

A cyclone passed over Eastern Silesia on Thursday last. One hundred houses at Neustadt, Kozel and Oberglon were unroofed, crops destroyed and several persons killed.

THE NEAPOLITAN RIOTS. The Action of the Police is to Be Rigorously Investigated.

ROME, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) The riots during the past few days in Naples, which have generally been attributed to striking cab-drivers, have a wider and deeper significance. The troubles had their origin in the anti-French agitation following the Algeiras Moor massacre of Italians by Frenchmen, and the cabmen took advantage of the situation to strike and foment trouble.

The police, it is charged, added to the seriousness of the situation by the brutality they displayed. The troops who were dispatched to the city quelled the riots. The city is now quiet, and vehicles are beginning to run as usual. An inquiry into the action of the police will be held.

EXTENSIVE FIRES. Timber Lands in Ten French Communes Burned Over.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—(By Cable and Associated Press.) Extensive forest fires are raging in the vicinity of the Monte de Marsan, the capital of the Department of Landes. They have been burning for days, and have consumed the timber lands in ten communes. Among the places burned over are the Solferino estate, formerly the property of ex-Empress Eugenie. Up to this time the losses amount to 1,100,000.

The Caffarelli Palace Burned. ROME, Aug. 26.—The Negroni Caffarelli palace burned this morning. The occupants had to be rescued with ladders. Among them were the Doge's auditor and the Portuguese Consul and family.

REV. JACOB KANTROWITZ. His Death a Severe Loss to the Jewish Community.

The Jewish ministry has recently sustained a severe loss in the passing away of the well known rabbi, Rev. Jacob Kantrowitz of New York, who, after a most active life in the cause of Judaism, died at the age of 70.

Kantrowitz was the uncle of Mr. Kantrowitz of this city, and was known on both sides of the Atlantic as one of the ablest exponents of the faith.

The reverend gentleman had a very interesting history. At the age of 8 he entered upon his life's vocation, and as the "boy cantor," with ten of the immediate members of his family as chorists, he created an immense sensation in religious circles, and his travels through Poland and Germany were of a most successful nature. Devoting himself to the study of music, he and his family, as the "Russian Singers," made a tour of the continent, appearing at the most famous musical festivals, and by special invitation before the courts of Holland and Belgium. KEELEY GRADUATES.

On Saturday afternoon the graduating class of the Keeley Institute at the Soldiers' Home gave a literary and musical entertainment, as a sort of celebration of their return to lives of sobriety.

The large dining-room at the home was utilized as an entertainment hall. A stage was erected at one side of the room, and this was tastefully decorated with flowers and flags. On the wall to the rear of the platform was a motto of evergreen bearing the legend "He Who Enters Here Finds the Balm of Hope."

The programme was very nicely arranged, and a delightful evening was spent by the large number of people who were present on the occasion.

The violin playing of Miss June Reed and Forest Cheney was a musical event that was worthy of mention.

Miss Grace Remington Davis sang a solo entitled "The Magnetic Voice." Miss Davis has a beautiful soprano voice, strong and powerful, and her rendition of the solo called forth an encore. It is to be hoped that Miss Davis will be heard again.

Thomas F. Barnes of Los Angeles gave the audience one of Maj. W. A. Elderkin's humorous recitations entitled, "Matilda Jane," and it was received so well that the gentleman was obliged to appear again, this time reciting "Eli's Surprise."

Capt. A. B. Golden spoke of the "Keeley League," and also the work so far accomplished at the Santa Monica Home through the agency of the Keeley remedies. His address was very instructive and interesting.

Henry Elser's instrumental baritone solo pleased the audience very much by the excellent execution.

The programme was concluded by a closing address from J. Marion Brooks. A good crowd of friends attended, and the whole exercises were very creditable to those who had it in charge.

The Reception Committee was T. E. Lowe, W. Hill, William H. McGarvey; Entertainment Committee, Maj. W. F. C. Reichel, highway.

There are about twenty-three old veterans who have graduated from the Keeley cure, and about the same number are now taking the treatment.

FIRED ONE DOLLAR.

Or of the Boycotters Convicted.

Case Ably Handled by Deputy Davis.

Question as to the Outrage Being Perpetrated.

Penalty Imposed for a Flagrant Violation of the Law—Silly Arguments of the Defense.

The case against John Ramsey and others, charged with disturbing the peace, came up before Justice Seman yesterday afternoon. It will be remembered that the defendants were the ones arrested last Tuesday while parading in front of Meleto's restaurant on Second street, carrying obnoxious banners, and attempting to run a boycott on the place.

When the case was called, Dist. Atty.
Dillon rose to make some remarks. He said that inasmuch as there had been some adverse criticism against Mr.
Davis in connection with the matter,
he (Dillon) had fully intended to conduct the people's side of the case himself. His duties in the Superior Court, however, made this impossible. From what Mr. Davis had said, he (Dillon) was confident that Mr. Davis had no ill-will against the defendants. The attorney on the other side had consented that Mr. Davis should conduct the case, and he (Dillon) was perfectly confident that Mr. Davis would conduct the examination fairly.

The defense asked that each of the defendants should be tried separately, and the court granted this request.
The case against John Ramsey was taken up first.

August Meleto, the proprietor of the restaurant in front of which the trouble took place, was the first witness. He stated that the defendants marched a number of times around a circle in front of his establishment. This was very offensive to him. One of the banners which they carried stated that Meleto worked his men thirteen hours per day. Witness admitted that he did work men on what was known as the night shift for twelve and a half hours, and afterward affirmed that he worked them thirteen hours. He stated, however, that he paid them extra for the work overtime.

Officer Robbins testified that on the day in question, and shortly after noon, he was instructed to notify the men to stop parading, and go.

"Did you ever notify the Salvation Army to stop parading?" asked counsel for the defense.

An objection to this question, because not competent, was sustained.
The testimony of Sgt. Jeffries was largely corroborative of that already given. At the time when the offense was alleged to have taken place, the defendants were marching in a circle, and quite a crowd had been attracted in front of Meleto's. There were so many standing about the doorway that a person would have experienced some difficulty in crowding his way in.

Some three or four other witnesses were examined for the prosecution, and then W. H. Adams, Esq., one of the attorneys for the defense, moved to dismiss the case on the ground that there had been no disturbance of the peace.
He argued that it had not been shown that Ramsey, who was just now the only one on trial, had been guilty of any misdemeanor. The Salvation Army was allowed to parade the streets without police interference, and he believed that these laboring men should have the same right.

Asst. Dist. Atty. LeCompte Davis argued the people's side on the motion. He said that he had not expected to try the case. It appeared plain that there had been a disturbance of the peace, for although these men had not been guilty of loud and violent noises, yet they certainly had been guilty of offensive conduct. He had no ill-feeling toward any of the defendants, and, in fact, did not know any of them till the time of making out the complaints. Every man had a sacred right to his labor, but, at the same time, it should be remembered that every employer, who was, in fact, laboring, only in another form, should have a right to conduct a legitimate business without interference. If an employer were conducting his business in a legitimate manner, then no man should have a right to interfere with him.

If he (Davis) were to work in the District Attorney's office from 8 o'clock in the morning till 10 o'clock at night in reading up and preparing for the cases which he had to attend to,
and were to do it for $100 a month, or for $90, as the Board of Supervisors had now cut the price down to, it was no-body's business but his own and the District Attorney's. No other lawyer had any right to interfere. If the employees in the restaurant in question were satisfied with their compensation, then on other man should interfere with them.

Henry P. Wilson, Esq., the other attorney for the defense, argued again for a dismissal of the case. The proprietor of the restaurant had not been using his men right, and organized labor had endeavored to compel him to do so. There had really been no offense committed.

The court stated that the people had appeared to make out a prima facie case, and accordingly overruled the motion to dismiss it.

A number of witnesses were examined for the defense. Their testimony was mostly to the effect that each of them, individually, had not been particularly disturbed by the occurrence.
The defendant, John Ramsey, was found guilty, and a fine of $1 was imposed. The cases against the others were dismissed.

It was stated, on the part of the defense, that a notice of appeal would be given.

ATTEMPTED INTIMIDATION.
In connection with these cases, there are some points that are not fully brought out in the trial. Ever since the arrests were made, there has been a systematic attempt to intimidate, not only the policemen who took the men in custody, but the prosecuting attorney. When the complaints were issued, Mr. Davis expressed himself very freely on the subject, and the matter was presented to the District Attorney. Friday, Mr. Dillon was in the Police Court, and had the cases continued until yesterday, saying that he was not satisfied that any offense had been committed, and he wanted to look up the law.
Yesterday, when the cases were called,
the proceedings above detailed took place.

An officer yesterday stated, in talking over the case, that a very serious point is involved in these cases. If one or two men can parade in front of a man's place of business, to his personal annoyance and financial detriment, then ten or a hundred might do the same thing, and if the police officers could offer no relief, there was danger of the man who was being imposed upon taking the law into his own hands, consequently, the peace of the community would be constantly menaced. There was but one thing to be done, however, and that was for the officers to do their duty and make arrests, and this would be done. Then, if the courts will only do their duty if the premises, the outrages can be suppressed.

A Small Demonstration.
Last evening about a hundred men and boys paraded the streets, headed by a brass band and carrying transparencies bearing the names of businesses.

STOLE A PIANO.
How Arthur Lewis Made a Raise—Landed in Jail.

A complaint was filed in the Police Court yesterday by Arthur W. Fisher charging Arthur Lewis with embezzlement. It is alleged that while Lewis was acting as agent for the Fisher & Boyd Piano Company he did appropriate to his own use a certain piano which was the property of the company.

Lewis was arrested at The Needles on Friday on instructions from the Sheriff's office here. He was brought to this city yesterday.

It seems that some weeks ago Lewis came into town and pretended to be somewhat of a musician. He finally became acquainted with the firm of Fisher & Boyd, and arranged to act as their agent, selling their pianos on commission.

He stated last Wednesday that he had sold a piano to a gentleman on Olive street. The piano was delivered, and later in the day Lewis called at the office and handed over $25, saying that the man who had bought the instrument would pay the balance the next morning.

On the day following, Lewis was seen with his mustache and beard shaved off. This caused suspicion, and on investigation it was found that Lewis had taken the entire payment for the piano and given a bill sale for it.

From some facts stated in a newspaper clipping, it is thought that Lewis is the man who played the same dodge in Lynn, Mass., sometime ago under the name of James E. Wing.

MORE of those Nightgowns for Monday; good muslin yokes tucked and embroidered; full size, well made, excellent quality; the price, 35c. Not so many as we had last Monday, but enough to last quite a while. Drawers, ruffled and tucked; good muslin, well made, 25c; worth at least 50c; they have five rows of tucks with a nice, neat, full ruffle. Chemise, well made, full size, lace trimmed, 25c.
You will remember a short time ago we made the assertion that the Muslin Underwear Department would more than double sales; it is more than doubling sales already. More of those perfect-fitting Wrappers, made from the best calico, $1.25. All of this for Monday's sale in the biggest and liveliest Underwear Department in the city. Baby Silk Bonnets and Capes in a hundred or more styles, all new. The line of Dollar Nightgowns is the best we ever carried. All new styles, all marked to draw a big crowd to the Muslin Underwear Department. Every piece and every kind of the old Underwear stock is on the half-priced tables; they are dwindling; fine goods, but odds and ends half price; this brings them down to a basis of cheap selling. The Royal Worcester Corset is doubling up sales; three orders out for the Royal Worcester Corset now shows the rapid turning over of these corsets. They are the popular corset for the masses; recommended by every one who ever wore a Royal Worcester. Whatever good word has been said about our Cloak Department is more than true now. New fall and winter Cloaks, the only place you will find them. A glance in our window will show big sleeves; big collars, new shapes, some are long, some short, some medium; they all have big sleeves, they all have fullness in the back. Plenty of Velvets are used, and the sales are coming along in good shape.
A few Capes showing Bourdon laces; they show Bourdon insertions, they show new ideas and a new way to produce the best effects. Bourdon Laces in cream, black and pure white are the newest and the biggest sellers for the year. Laces will be largely used for fall. Bourdon Laces in three and five widths in matched patterns with insertions to match. Narrow, medium and wide Torchons in fine thread; no higher than the coarse, ungainly goods of a year ago; much handsomer, much finer; equal for wear. A new line of real linen Torchon Laces, and then comes narrow Embroideries, Nainsooks and Cambrics—the neat, narrow, popular width, with captivating prices, 5c, 6c; 8c, 10c, 12c and 15c; just a touch of cheapness without sacrificing the best patterns and style. Trade is gaining in the Lace Department. New all over. New Veiling in new colors with borders. The Veiling Dept.
has been enlarged, has been improved, has been increasing sales. We refer again to the 35-cent line of Nightgowns; we refer to them again as the stocks are not so large as last Monday; the manufacturers disappointed and sent us one half of what we ordered, and apologized for not sending the other half, just as though we sold apologies. Some of these manufacturers are jay birds without plumage. We make up for the difference in quantity by putting in Drawers, with five rows of tucks and a fine full ruffle, for 25 cents; lace-trimmed Chemise for 25 cents; then we add the Calico Wrapper for $1.25, made from best calico, and they fit. Black India Silks, the most exquisite quality for smoothness and richness in color we ever laid upon our counters.

THE PEOPLE'S PHYSICIAN.

Some of the Causes of Their Success.

They Succeed Because They Have the Right Plan.

There is probably no institution in Los Angeles so well known and so firmly established as the De Monco Medical Institute. This is a popular medical institution, where people can obtain treatment for all diseases of the nose, throat and lungs, at a nominal price, with the medicines furnished free.

It is no wonder that under such conditions there are so many features in the method they have employed that commend themselves to the attention of everyone. This cannot be otherwise than a grand success.

Dr. De Monco and associates take a personal interest in every case that is intrusted to their care. They are equipped for their work by special training, superior education, first-class equipment and a long and varied experience. They are also men of high character, and their specialties, and with all forms of diseases.

A big bill at the drugstore is one of the necessities of life. Under the De Monco average patient there is nothing of the sort. They are given all the medicines they need, besides treatment, and their terms include, besides the medicines, all the services of the clinic and all the attention of the physician.

These facts are commented on daily by the numerous patients at their offices, and are vitally interesting to all those who are contemplating taking medical treatment. This is especially true of those who are contemplating, and especially to those who are already suffering from a chronic disease, by the average sufferer toward a high price doctor, and the train of expensive medicines connected with every step of the treatment. All of which is respectfully submitted, that those who are interested may profit.

A Well-known Man is Relieved of a Troublesome Catarrh. With Dr. De Monco's relief for Catarrh and Prostate, Mr. J. F. Crowder, a prominent and successful business man, writes the following letter to Dr. De Monco, which will give his testimony, which will weigh with all thinking people. He says:

"I have been troubled more or less with catarrh for the past fifteen years, and about a year ago it became so aggravated as to cause me much suffering. I had pains in my head over the eyes, roaring sounds in my ears, could scarcely breathe through my nostrils, and at other times always stopped up, and my sense of smell was completely lost. I had a constant dropping of mucus in the back of my throat, frequently causing sickness of the stomach, and at times a sharp pain in the chest, and I really believed my lungs would soon become affected."

"After trying many different remedies without deriving the slightest benefit, I concluded to try Dr. De Monco and Sapp. Under their scientific treatment I have become a new man, and am able and entirely satisfactory."

I feel free now. No more pains in the head, no more in the ears, no more in the throat, can breathe without difficulty, and am able to do all the work of a man. I feel that I have been cured. My improvement has been so remarkable that I have no hesitancy in recommending Dr. De Monco and Sapp as thoroughly competent specialists."

Under the new system patients treating by mail receive the advantage of a careful and accurate diagnosis, with watchful attention paid to the results of every case, and the most efficient and skillful treatment. Send four cents in stamps for Question Circulars.

SAN BERNARDINO.

The Authorities Cleaning Out Disreputable Houses.

Saloon-keepers Convicted of Violating the Liquor Ordinance—Accident at the Stewart Block—Redlands.

Notes.

Several raids by the authorities within the past few days, and the conduct of a number of disreputable characters, have served to bring into prominence the low element with which San Bernardino has the misfortune to be cursed. The police officers are evidently endeavoring to carry out the wishes of the electors who placed them in power, and are making pretty good progress at cleaning out the dives of the city, although there are a few here, as in any city, who champion the cause of the low and vile creatures whose work is to degrade all life within the town. But the greater portion of the citizens, and those who have any sense of honor and moral right, are upholding the officers in their efforts to elevate the standing of the city.

A number of cases were disposed of on Saturday by Recorder Peck and others set for hearing. Harry Sanborn and Taylor, proprietors of the White House, were tried for renting rooms for use by prostitutes in following their low calling. On the 24th the house was raided and two women, Josie Garcia and Lizzie Martinez, found there, and they and the proprietors put under arrest. Taylor was discharged and Sanborn found guilty and fined $100.

Robert Esgomus, proprietor of the Del Monte, was up, charged with selling liquor without a license, and his trial set for Monday. He was released on a cash bail of $150.

George Bonemer was before Judge Peck charged with the same offense, pleaded guilty and was fined $75.

The public gaze was turned towards the disreputable houses by an escape which took place at the one on the corner of Main and Broadway, in which John Barrow, a young printer, is reported to have been beaten with a beer bottle, by Stanley, one of the inmates.

Barrow is a frequent visitor to this house and is his favorite among the solid doers.

ACCIDENT AT THE STEWART BLOCK. The first accident in the erection of the Stewart Block occurred on Saturday at 11:30 in the morning when John Beam, a carpenter, engaged in placing the joists in position on the second floor, stepped backward off the wall and fell to the floor.

Beam fell below the level of the floor and the small of his back upon the corner of a joist. He was severely hurt, but to what extent is not yet known, morphine was administered, hypodermic syringe and he was taken to his room on E street.

REDLANDS. One of the greatest evidences upon the growth of this region is found in the work of the railroads in preparing for it. These great corporations certainly have undertaken a task of no small magnitude in building and equipping the great trunk line from Redlands to Los Angeles, and a shipper of large quantities of produce. Within the past fifteen months the Southern Pacific has expended a large sum of money in securing a right-of-way through Redlands to Croyton, in litigation with the Santa Fe, because of conflict of rights in building the road and erecting substantial station buildings. A handsome brick station building has been put up in the city, and another small one near the business portion of town. Another large and convenient station building and packing-house was erected at Redlands Junction, just west of the city limits, and another just like it at Croyton, east of the city limits. Now work is already under way upon another like these two at Eastborne, about half way between the depot and the city. The Santa Fe will also erect a new depot building at Eastborne. Other improvements are also projected.

REDLANDS BREVITIES. J. F. Richardson has joined his family at Coronado.

W. S. Sawyer has started for the Yosemite Valley on a visit.

Mrs. C. J. Monson, Jr., is taking an outing at Redlands, and is enjoying the lemon picnic at Croyton on Friday.

A. J. Brown of Pasadena spent last week in this city, the guest of his son.

The fruit companies have as yet but small forces of men at work drying grapes. A. A. Courtney and family have returned from an extended visit to San Francisco and Humboldt county.

Dr. J. A. Mook is back from the desert and mountains north of here, where he has been prospecting for the past two months.

Work is already well under way upon an addition to the Lugonia school building, to accommodate an increase in the number of school children.

One of the applicants of the Yucalpe reports having already marketed eleven tons of honey from 140 beehives, and bees, which he received 5 cents a pound, net, or $1100.

ONTARIO. The San Bernardino papers have been making a good deal of stir about Chinese being allowed to come to the city, and of facts. The excitement seems to have been mostly out of Ontario, and one gentleman here was much astonished, a few days since, to receive a dispatch asking him to send a hundred words to the Times-Index regarding the attempts made here to clean out the Chinese. A very quiet anti-Chinese meeting was held on Monday evening, the 21st, and some committees were appointed. Another meeting was called for Wednesday evening, and an effort will be made to induce those employing Chinese to substitute white labor.

No violence or threat of violence will be tolerated here, and the sympathy of the community is with the laboring men, if they can furnish competent and willing hands to take the place of the Chinese.

There were nearly two thousand tickets sold in Ontario by the Southern Pacific and Santa Fe during the week.

Ontario furnished another lot of lemons for the World's Fair last week. Mr. Geow, who is in charge of the county exhibit, says that the Ontario lemons discount any others that have been exhibited.

The building activity continues, and several new residences have been started within the past few days. The building for the year has been distributed over a wide area, but the aggregate will be larger than for the past few years.

D. E. Platt who went off to the desert with a stable team, has been held for trial in the Superior Court for larceny. Justice Hardy has also committed Alce Bush for trial on the charge of felony, for breaking into a room and stealing a watch and other valuables. He has served two terms in jail from here, and one short term at San Quentin.

The rabbit-hunt on the 26th promises to be a big affair. The South Cucamonga plains will be scoured all day, and the scaps taken will be pooled to buy a supper for the hunters. The captains expect that 1000 rabbits will be slaughtered.

ORANGE COUNTY.

Meeting of the Santa Ana Board of Education.

Several Additions to the Public School Faculty Election—Fill Vacancy Postponed—General News Notes.

Notes.

The Santa Ana Board of Education met Friday evening in the City Hall in special session, with all the members and the Superintendent present.

The subject of employing a teacher for the ensuing year to teach natural sciences was exhaustively discussed, after which D. R. Wood of South Dayton, N. Y., was employed at $100 per month.

Bills of $10.50 for W. H. Collins for work performed, and of $300 insurance premiums on $12,000 policies on the Central school building, by F. L. Saxton, were allowed.

The salary of Miss Cora L. Williams, assistant principal of the High School, was fixed at $1200 for the school year.

Prof. Perham presented the name of Mrs. Albert Sexton for permanent substitute as teacher, and upon motion she was unanimously chosen.

The event of the evening was to be the selection of a member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of E. D. Connelley, who was elected to the board at the regular meeting.

Dr. Hall reported an error of 45 cents on account of the board, and the secretary instructed to deposit the balance with the City Treasurer to the credit of the school fund.

Adjourned to meet next Friday night.

GET YOUR PUMPKINS READY. Manager Joplin of the Orange County exhibit at the World's Fair is beginning to make things hum in the Windy City. He now wants to make a pyramid of big peatland pumpkins, and writes as follows concerning the matter: "About September 1st I want to have sent to me about half a carload of the biggest pumpkins that Orange county can raise; want to make a big pyramid of them."

Before the people that we need additions in the line of new and large vegetables all the time. The extra large things are the ones that take best with the crowd, and they will remember them the longest.

"Some people here from Los Angeles, who have been on to New York, were in to-day. They tell me that the California building is the talk of the country, wherever it is mentioned."

Arrangements should be made to forward all the best of the county's productions he can possibly make room for.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY. Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Edgar were pleasantly surprised Friday evening by a large number of their friends who gathered at the occasion was to pleasantly celebrate the eleventh anniversary of their wedding.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. A. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. N. Hafferty, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Tedford, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Scarbrough, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Parker, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Rowley, Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Tedford, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vanderlip, Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Jones, Mrs. Frank Vanderlip, and the Misses Carrie Burton, Ella Ballard, Susie Ross-Lewis and others.

SATISFIED NATIVES AND DAUGHTERS. A meeting of natives sons and daughters was held in Congress hall Friday evening, over which John Beatty, Jr., presided, to continue in arranging for a celebration on September 9 at Newport.

The Committee on Programme reported progress and that the programme would be published later on; that W. A. Harris, Esq., formerly of San Bernardino, but a present resident of Los Angeles, had been selected to deliver an oration before the natives sons and daughters upon this date at Newport; that invitations had been sent to the natives sons and daughters of Santa Ana, San Bernardino and Los Angeles, to join in the Anniversary day celebration.

The Committee on Finance and Music was appointed. The following gentlemen were appointed a committee on reception, consisting of three ladies and three gentlemen, including the chairman, whose duty it should be to receive the ladies and all visitors on their arrival. The Programme Committee was instructed to prepare badges by which the natives sons and daughters could be distinguished.

The meeting then adjourned until next Friday night at the usual hour.

A PLEASANT PARTY. Miss Kitty Butler of the Superior telephone exchange, gave a very pleasant party Friday evening at the residence of her parents on West Hickey street in honor of Misses Edith Hoar and Bertha Gallup, Lottie Padgham, Ella Nell, Ora Ball, Miss Roper and Messrs. Harry Dean, W. G. Hall, W. H. McClain, Park's Dean, W. Robinson, H. H. Glenn, Ernest Christman, E. S. Wallace.

SANTA ANA BREVITIES. Mrs. Harry Hamaker has returned to her home in Pasadena.

L. B. Young is building a neat cottage on his ranch east of the Southern Pacific depot.

J. W. Ballard, Esq., has been selected to deliver the opening address of the Orange county fair.

Excursions will be run over the Santa Fe road today from this city to Redondo, where a special programme has been arranged for the entertainment of the visitors.

The Oceanview schoolhouse is undergoing thorough repairs, and also an addition being added thereto.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Robinson of Trabuca are rejoicing over the advent of a bright little girl in their household.

J. Wallace Dis of Redlands, who has been visiting in this city for the past week or ten days, left Saturday for his home.

B. C. Flournoy, a cousin of the late Victor Montgomery, Esq., of this city, has accepted the position of bookkeeper with the Blade Publishing Company of this city.

The gold and silver medals won recently in the bicycle race around the Kite via Orange and Tustin have arrived and are on exhibition at Padgham's jeweler store.

George S. Smith, Mr. Pulver, Mrs. Hammond and daughter Emma, Miss Carrie Jones, Miss Minnie Smith, Dr. Emdendorf, Rev. E. Watson and Charlie Metz have returned from a pleasant outing in Trabuca Canyon.

The King brothers of the San Joaquin ranch, report that their yield of barley on the 5000 acres they are farming will be about fifty-three bushels to the acre. This is a remarkable yield, and surely will prove a very profitable one to the owners.

Santa Ana enjoyed the novelty of a summer rain early Saturday morning. Shortly after 6 o'clock rain began falling in large drops, and for about twenty-five minutes the precipitation continued. A heavy quarter of an inch fell. No damage to crops resulted from the rainfall.

R. Thompson and family will remove to Santa Barbara the first of September. Mr. Thompson has been a candidate for the

over the river at Los Angeles is nearing completion, and from points picked up here and there, and on good authority, the above prediction is made. It would not be at all surprising if the new bridge should be running into Pasadena before the winter season is well advanced.

(Crown Vista.) The City Council of Pasadena is required to have the wisdom of Solomon, in selecting the site for the new bridge, and the patience of the immortal Job. The manner in which they have been "knewed" and "knewed" and by the same token, on the paving question is sufficient to decanonize a saint.

PASADENA.

Street Improvement Act Adopted by a Large Majority.

Heavy Fine Imposed Upon a Violator of the Local Liquor Ordinance—Some of Today's Church Services.

Brevities.

The election held on Saturday to decide whether or not Pasadena shall change the provisions of the street improvement act passed by the last legislature passed off quietly. There was no hot polling place, and that at the clerk's office in the City Hall. The officers of election were: T. A. Smith, judge, M. H. Wright, inspector, Mr. Baldwin, clerk. The polls closed at 5 o'clock, when it was found that a total of 181 votes had been polled, of which 173 were in favor of the act, 6 were against it, and 1 vote cast was a blank.

The result of this election will be far-reaching in its effects. The act in question gives the City Council authority to order the planting of shade trees on the streets, to regulate the trimming of hedges, and to eradicate certain weeds. Such work is not paid for by a general tax, but is only assessed against the negligent or absent property-owner, who refuses to do such work on his own account. How, under these circumstances, even nine residents could be found who would vote against the adoption of such an act passes comprehension. It is fortunate, indeed, for Pasadena that the narrow-minded people of this class are in a very small minority, otherwise the future of the city would take on an exceedingly sinister hue.

It will now be in order for the Council to rigidly enforce the provisions of the act. By so doing, the city will be able to secure the sidewalks will be planted with shade trees, which will be planted with a view to symmetry as well as beauty; the hedges that line the sidewalks will be trimmed to conform to some fixed standard, and offensive weeds will be wiped out. With such an act in full force, Pasadena will, within the next decade, stand pre-eminent as the most beautiful residence city in the country.

HE WAS FINED $250. Herman Garmshausen, who pleaded guilty of selling beer at the Stoll soda works on South Fair Oaks avenue, in violation of the city ordinance, brought up with a dull thud Saturday morning before Recorder Rossiter.

The prosecution's evidence was furnished by Messrs. Lynnwood and two companions, who, on a recent and somewhat noteworthy occasion, had repaired to said bottling works and there snatched beer for the tent of nearly a dozen bottles, which was furnished at the remarkably low figure of 65 cents per six bottles. The facts of the case were agreed to by both parties, and a fine of $250 on Garmshausen, which was paid.

CROWN VISTA EDITORIALS ON PAVING. "If Colorado street isn't paved now it won't be paved in the future."

"The paving of Colorado street will give employment to many needy men."

"Mayor W. was an antipathy to professional 'smelers' from Oakland or anywhere else."

"In the future the Perine Paving Company of San Francisco will probably investigate first and put up certified checks afterward. Hitting the cart, before the horse is an awkward and obsolete fashion."

"Let every one remember that all public improvements, including the value, not only of adjacent property, but indirectly all realty in the city of Pasadena, has lost many residents and visitors by reason of the fearful conditions of Colorado street. Let this blot upon our fair city be removed at once."

PULPIT AND PEAR. Dr. J. R. Townsend will conduct the service at the Y.M.C.A. meeting at Strong's Hall this (Sunday) afternoon, beginning at 3 p. m.

A lively First Presbyterian Church Rev. N. B. G. will occupy the pulpit in the morning. There will be no evening service. At the morning session of the Sunday school brief memorial services will be held in honor of the late superintendent, Walter Graves, whose recent death at his home in New York State was recorded in these columns.

There will be a communion service at the First Congregational Church, the morning of the usual evening service will be held with preaching by the pastor.

PASADENA BREVITIES. Mrs. Lucy Clapp expects to leave for Denver the latter part of the week.

A lively traffic took place Saturday evening at the Brunswick billiard hall.

John Brenner and family will leave today (Sunday) for a week's stay at Catalina.

Several of the local tennis players returned from Santa Monica Saturday evening.

The work of covering the roof of the Hotel Grange annex with red tiles was begun Saturday.

Dr. W. P. Channing is out again after being confined to the house for some days as the result of a fall.

Messrs. Henry and Hiram Staats have returned from an extended and enjoyable fishing excursion to Catalina.

L. H. Buchanan and his assistant T. E. Fluke are in Arizona, placing Mr. Buchanan's nickel-plate nickel mine.

Another large crowd went up to Rubio Canyon Saturday evening. So far, the Mr. Lowe road has proved a howling success.

Miss Hall has returned from a several days' stay at Santa Monica, where she was one of the interested spectators at the tennis tournament.

A degree of Honor was up to see the races. The institution here Saturday evening with appropriate ceremonies. A large delegation was present from Los Angeles.

A joint meeting of the committees interested in the new G. A. hall work will be held Saturday evening at the residence of Comrade Stevens on North Marengo avenue.

Preparations are being made for starting up a Chinese laundry on South Fair Oaks avenue, adjoining the Nevada House. The near-by property-owners are going to protest.

The question now is, who were the nine people who voted against the adoption of the street improvement act? Some of them will doubtless run for a place in the City Council next spring.

The choir boys of All Saints' Church spent a jolly day up in Rubio Canyon and on Echo Mountain Friday. They made the ascent of the incline, and lunched at Crystal Springs. They were accompanied by the rector, Rev. Dr. Wyllis Hall.

Some of the property-owners on East Colorado street are anxious that the contractors should hasten operations looking to the completion of cement sidewalks on both sides of this thoroughfare, between Fair Oaks and Lake avenues.

There is good reason to believe that the Consolidated Electric Company of Los Angeles is still minded to extend its road to Pasadena some time soon. The bridge over the river at Los Angeles is nearing completion, and from points picked up here and there, and on good authority, the above prediction is made. It would not be at all surprising if the new bridge should be running into Pasadena before the winter season is well advanced.

(Crown Vista.) The City Council of Pasadena is required to have the wisdom of Solomon, in selecting the site for the new bridge, and the patience of the immortal Job. ## AT THE SEASIDE.

News and Gossip from the Watering Places.

Some of Those Who are Tenting—Gay Times at Catalina—News Notes from Redondo, Long Beach and Santa Monica.

REDONDO.

The Hermosa was the only boat in and out Saturday. It brought sixty-five passengers from Avalon and carried away fifty-four.
C. L. Youngman, victim of the accident on the English Block some time since, was out for the first time Saturday, being able to make the trip to Los Angeles.
Lumber for Guild Hall is being delivered on the proposed site of the building.
Chief Magney of Hotel Redondo is convalescing after a severe attack of pneumonia.
John McDonald and family of Pasadena are Sundaying at Redondo.
E. Bonet and Newton Elder are the two Los Angeles who went into camp with their families at Redondo on Saturday.
Marshall Foyce is celebrating his advent into office by general cleanup of streets and alleys all over town.

The Stone Kingdom: Nebuchadnezzar's Vision. Is the topic of Rev. J. N. Elliott's address at the City Hall this (Sunday) afternoon at 2:30.
Division Superintendent W. B. Beemer, of the Santa Fe, inspected railroad affairs here Saturday.
Los Angeles, Glendora and Azusa absorbed the 1500 pounds of fish shipped from this point Saturday.
Abbot Kinney and family, who have spent the season thus far at the Redondo, returned Saturday to their ranch near Sierra Madre.

The capture of a forty-pound yellowtail from the wharf Saturday inspires the nimble with the hope that the prime fish are about to become plenty in the waters of the bay—possibly as plenty as during last September, when one might catch as many of them as one wished.
The guests at Hotel Redondo entertained themselves very pleasantly Friday evening with an impromptu programme, whose leading feature was an address by Maj. Elderkin. There was also music by Mrs. Kinney and Miss Rosecrance, and a cello solo by Prof. Berlich. The evening was pleasantly passed and will be followed by others of similar nature.

On account of the illness of Mrs. Brooks, mother of Mrs. F. G. Ryan, that lady will return to her Santa Monica home with her family today (Sunday).
The abandoned free reading room at the wharf will be succeeded by a more pretentious affair, which will be erected on the opposite side of the wharf, next to the warehouse. The new hall will be known as the Redondo reading room. The funds from the sale of the Orphan barracks lumber have been donated to the enterprise.
Mrs. George Harnard of Riverside is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. L. Hill.

Alex. Mathewson suffered the loss of his man-of-war in bringing his Hattie and Della to the wharf during the week, but the damage has been repaired and the boat will carry a party of Los Angeles gentlemen out to the deep-sea fishing grounds today (Sunday).
A masquerade party on roller skates made merry at the pavilion Saturday evening.

The Redondo attractions for today will vary a little from those of recent Sundays. The Douglas band will be on hand as usual, but in lieu of the clam bake there will be an aerial athletic entertainment in the afternoon by Messrs. Allen and Platt, who will occupy a platform just south of the casino.

LONG BEACH.

T. E. Gibson, Esq., of the Terminal, was in town the latter part of last week and made glad the hearts of Long Beachers by assurances of his company's desire to provide suitable depot facilities by investment of $3500 in a modern building. The Terminal company only waits for a good title to suitable property along the ocean front upon which to build. The mutual interests of company and citizens in this improvement will undoubtedly lead to its early consummation.

Juan Canedo, injured last week at the Cerritos ranch by a horse falling upon him, seemed to be doing well until Friday, when a blood clot in the heart carried him off very suddenly.
J. W. Walter and family, who have occupied Dr. J. W. Walter's residence for a month, will return to their Los Angeles home on Monday.
A branch of the Fraternal Aid Association has been organized here by State Organizer J. H. Frederick. Its officers are: George F. Vaughn, president; Mrs. A. V. Howard, vice-president; W. C. Frauder, president; Mrs. J. S. Wilson, secretary; A. B. Roster, treasurer; Drs. Wood and Dial, medical examiners; C. W. Casabloom, chaplain; H. C. Most, observer; J. C. Armstrong, sentinel. Installation of officers will occur on Thursday evening next, August 31.
H. A. Williams of San Francisco is spending a few days with his friend of the old time, Mr. Parrish.
The family of Redlands are at Ocean Rest for a month of sea air and baths.

J. H. Scales of Chicago, who is here with other out-of-towners, has negotiated for fifteen acres from the Alamitos ranch property, being one-half of farm lot 45 and all of 54. Other Chicagoans who contemplate purchasing include Messrs. Cline, Hobbs, Fowler, Alchey and Blanchard. Mr. Maine of Hastings, Neb., is also with the party, and will probably buy some inside property for a home ranch.

On Monday evening the city trustees, sitting as a board of equalization, will listen to objections to the assessments now made. Let those who object speak then, or forever after hold their peace.
A jolly camping party went over to Portuense Bend last week for a camping excursion, which consumed a number of days. It consisted of L. A. Bailey and wife, Calch, J. A. Miles and wife, Battle Gage, Bessie Harnett and Lizzie Lewis of Clearwater.

The street lamps ordered have arrived, and will be in place as soon as the poles are obtained upon which to place them.
Will F. Sweeney is enjoying a fortnight's vacation at Catalina.
The guests at the Seaside Inn Saturday evening were among the more recent temporary additions to the beach population.
Mrs. Dr. Campbell of Ontario has located with her family in a cottage here for a few weeks.

The mid-week fishing on the wharf did not hold out to the week's end, and the baskets Saturday were coming in much leaner than on days previous.
A jolly party of young people from Pasadena, chartered by Mrs. Chickin, has taken cottages here for two weeks' of seaside pleasures. There are in the party A. L. Rider, William Rogers, George Burnham, and the Messrs. Wagner, Pillsbury, Montfort, Closser, Stevens and Chamberlain.
D. H. Thomas and family of Tustin are enjoying the beach here at present.
G. W. Megarthy and wife, Mrs. J. P. Megarthy and Mrs. E. C. Freeman, Omaha, Neb., registered at the Seaside Inn Saturday.
C. C. Barnes, Ventura, and Mrs. L. P. Frary, Pomona, are also among its guests.
R. B. Arvey of Downey was in town Saturday.

People come and go in large numbers, but as yet the cottages and rooms are well taken.
SANTA MONICA.
Joe Brady was arraigned before Justice Willis yesterday on a charge of robbery. He was arrested in Fresno on a telegram from Constable Dexter, and is supposed to be one of the fellows who, with the Carters, was interested in the recent hold-ups. His examination was set for next Wednesday.
A continuation of the swimming match will be one of the attractions at North Beach today. William Spitzoesser, who has been first for two successive Sundays, will have an opportunity of winning the medal today. A large crowd is expected down.

Miss Grace Remington Davis, a pupil of the celebrated Ernaud, will sing today, at the Episcopal Church Handel's "Angels Ever Bright and Fair."
Work is progressing rapidly on the electric plant in this town. The power-house is about completed, the poles are placed and most of the wire in place.
Miss Grace Remington Davis is to give a concert at the Hotel Arcadia on the evening of August 31. She is to be assisted by other musical talent. Miss Davis is a phenomenal singer, possessing a voice of exceptional power and richness.
W. U. Masters and family have returned to their Pasadena home, after a very pleasant time here for some weeks.
Dr. Hasse and son, of the Soldiers' Home, have been on a two weeks' hunting and fishing excursion up the mountains. They returned to the home Saturday.
The Catholic fair, which has been in operation at the Cates Block since last Wednesday evening, closed last evening. The decorations of the various booths, and, in fact, the entire room, were exceedingly tasteful, and the service of the ladies adds a new charm to the attractions of the fair. The fair has been a financial success.

A german was shot Saturday morning in the pavilion. It was led by H. Vall and Miss Banning, John Schumacher and Mrs. Vall. The men who participated in it were: L. J. Rose, Jr., Dr. Haviland, J. B. Banning, C. Wignome, Gilmore, Dr. Fowler, Patrick, Sterling, Rodgers, H. Carhart, Perkins, Patten, Brown, Martin and Sprangler. The ladies were Misses L. Banning, Butler, Rose, Houghton, Mrs. Banning, Misses Mabel Rose, Patton, Maud Rose, Patrick, Lucy, Kimball, Milner, T. Kurtz, Heinemann, Jones, Alway, Weir, Kurtz, Messrs. Gardner, Wiggins, Weaver and Prussia, Mrs. Vall and Miss Newhall.
This will be the first of a series of morning games, which will be given in the pavilion and it is expected that the Saturday morning games will be a feature of Avalon festivities next season.
George Patten and family arrived Friday and registered at the Metropole.
Among Monday's arrivals was Mr. Sprangler.
That Catalina Island is a pre-eminently healthy place can be judged from the fact that so many physicians choose it as a resort for their families. Dr. Kurtz and his family here, so has Dr. Salisbury, and Dr. Fowler who has been here for the past two months says Avalon is wonderfully healthy. The sanitary regulations, he declares, are exceptionally good.
There are several very sentimental-minded young people on the island, who have developed a wonderful liking for moonlight nights, and see strange pictures reflected on the ocean by Diana's torch. The seagirt torch exercises a peculiar and a stay-out-late-at-night feeling, which it is hard to combat, despite watchful mamma.

Booth!
(Read by the author at the Literary Congress in Chicago, on Children's Day.)
On afternoons, when baby boy has had a splendid nap
And sits, like any monarch on his throne,
In nurse's lap,
In some such wise my handkerchief I hold before my face.
And cautiously and quietly I move about the place.
Then, with a cry, I suddenly expose my face to view.
And you should hear him laugh and grow when I say "Booth!"
Sometimes that rascal tries to make believe that he is scared:
And, really, when I first began, he stared and stared and stared;
And then his under lip came out and farther out it came.
Till mamma and the nurse agreed it was a "foul shame."
But now what does that same wee tottling, lisping baby do?
But I laugh and kick his little heels when I say "Booth!"
He laughs and kicks his little heels in rapturous glee, and then
In shrill, despatching treble bids me "do it all again."
And I—of course I do it; for, as his progenitor,
It is such pretty, pleasant play as this that I am for!
And it is, oh, such fun! and I am sure that I shall rue
The time when we are both too old to play the game of "Booth!"
EUGENE FIELD.

What Roup Is.
(Poultry Keeper.) We may state that roup is a contagious disease, scrofulous in its nature, and which permits of several stages. If a fowl is cured of roup the result is that an abscess is formed, or, if not apparent outwardly, some of the internal organs are affected. Like consumption, it may attack the throat, the lungs, and even the bowels. It nearly always attacks the bowels of little chicks.
Canker is an evidence or indication of roup. It is really diphtheria in one form, and human beings are liable to contract the disease, as well as cats and other animals. The first stages are colds, which may be cured, but, unless this is done, the disease attacks the weakest portions of the body.
Scrofulous consumption, or tubercular consumption, is the principal form of roup, and pulmonary consumption is another. The terrible odor is always proof of the contagious form. We use the term scrofulous consumption because it better applies as an explanation.

The hoarse breathing, or choking, occurs more with very fat fowls than with others, and it is somewhat like croup, though there is also a thickening of the larynx (the upper part of the windpipe). Scrofula is really a disease of the lymphatic glands of the neck, but the term is not used to include those incurable diseases that attack the body, as sores, etc. Canker is an attack by the disease of the membrane of the throat.
There are many forms of consumption, and roup is simply a name for the disease among fowls, though it may differ in many respects in comparison with humans. That it is hereditary (more susceptible) and that some fowls are more easily attacked than others is known to be true.
Roupy fowls are unfit for food, and those who sell such birds may unknowingly take the life of some human being by inducing the consumption of carcasses that affect dogs and cats, and which, though apparently in the best condition as food, are receptacles of death-dealing poison to all who use them.

"I Want to Know."
She came from 'way down East, they said,
And, being introduced, she led Me there to recapitulate
The city's phases up to date;
And when my full directory
I had retailed, she said to me
"I want to know!"
I told her everything I knew
That worthy was of interview:
Retailed to her each shopping mart,
The homes of drama, music, art,
The drives, menageries and parks;
Described with eloquent remarks
The watering places round about,
Enthusiased over each excursion route,
Talked till, in fact, my tongue grew
Then heard again in accents meek,
"I want to know!"
Angels of mercy! Had I then
And, with warm maledictions hurled,
That spintster to the lower world
From open window where I sat,
Would not the gods approve of that?
"I want to know!"
(Boston Courier.)

Old-fashioned Flowers.
Where are the sweet old-fashioned posies,
Quaint in form and bright in hue,
Such as grandma gave her lovers
When she walked the garden through?
Lavender, with spikes of azure
Pointing to the dome on high,
Telling thus whence came its color,
Thanking with its breath the sky.
Four o'clock, with heart upholding,
When the loveliest sun had gone,
Streak and strain of cunning crimson
Like the light of early dawn.
Regal lilies, many petalled,
Like the curling drifts of snow,
With their crowns of golden anthers
Poised on malachite below.
Morning-glories, tents of purple,
Stretched on tents of creamy white,
Folding up their satin curtains
Inward through the dewy night.
Marigold, with coat of velvet
Splashed with gold and yellow lace,
With its love for summer sunlight
Written on its honest face.
Dainty pink with feathered petals,
Tinted, curled and deeply frayed,
With their crowns of golden anthers
On its leaves uplifted laid.
Can't you see them in the garden
Now, where grandma takes her nap,
And cherry-blossoms shake softly over
Silver hair and snowy cap?
Will the modern florist's triumph
Look so fair or smell so sweet,
As those dear, old-fashioned posies,
Blooming round our grandma's feet?

MEN OF LOS ANGELES.

Know you that this space in future will be occupied by the Men and Boys' Departments of our house, to educate and illustrate the newest and latest in Men and Boys' Wear. The new idea in these departments—"the best is none too good"—has increased their sales and importance, and they "struck" for more space to advertise their plums than we could give them in our general ad. Hereafter direct your eye daily upon this ad. It will be instructive, team with interest to your personal appearance and your pocket. For ten years we have held undisputed sway of the Men and Boys' medium class of Underwear, Hats, Shoes and Furnishings. No one has been able to approach us. We are ambitious and started out to add to our stocks the finest in these lines that are manufactured. "The best is none too good" is the future maxim of this house in every department. This fall we will put in the finest, newest and noblest stock of Men's and Boys' Wear that ever came to Los Angeles. Think of the People's Store being Los Angeles' mirror of fashion. This is the forerunner, the reflection will follow. We will promise to give you the best there is and at a lesser price than our neighbors. We would like to show you perfect shoemaking, and would be pleased to have you inspect our Men's Footwear; they are the finest in the world; there is no approach to them; price $3 to $8. If they are not better, more shapely and stylish, and less expensive than any others in this city, we will forever more hold our peace. Don't believe what we tell you, but come in and see these shoes and verify our word. Our Men's Shoe trade is on the increase. When once the men of this town see our shoe work and our price for the same, then we'll have both your trade and your confidence. We can, we do, and we will undersell all competition. If the best for the least is an object, then you will see us.

DR. HONG SOI,

Chinese Physician and Surgeon.

Practices exclusively among the Chinese.
317 S. BROADWAY, - LOS ANGELES, CAL.

DR. HONG SOI has graduated and received his diploma from the medical schools and universities in Canton, and made his first professional practice for many years in the hospitals of Canton and Hong Kong, China. He is the sixth of a generation of doctors in his family and has made thorough studies of all diseases of the human body. The doctor has had wide experience as a physician, and during his long stay of six years in Los Angeles has made many skillful cures. The doctor cures CONSUMPTION, RHEUMATISM, ASTHMA, CATARRH, SICK HEADACHE, INDIGESTION, WAKEFULNESS, NERVOUS TROUBLES, AND ALL DISEASES that the human body is heir to, by this herb medicine, freshly prepared every day. It would be a benefit to those who are in trouble with sickness to give him a fair trial. His terms are very reasonable. The doctor uses a thousand kinds of medicine which he directly imports from China. Hundreds of voluntary testimonials from patients who have been cured by the doctor can be shown at his office. Please remember the above address and reserve this advertisement.

TENNIS AND POLO.

Closing Contests of the Sanat Monica Tournament.

Alexander Again Carries Off the Association Championship.—Daily Keeping Up His Reputation.

The tennis tournament is over, and the winners as well as the losers have returned to their homes.

The interest taken in tennis this year has been greater than at any previous tournament of the association.

The attendance each day has been remarkably good, and from a financial point of view, the officers and members of the association have no reason to complain.

The closing day of the tournament was devoted to the finals and windups of several unfinished events, as well as a new match between R. P. Carter and J. L. Daily.

As in all matches in which Carter and Daily have participated, this was a pretty game of tennis.

It was the best two out of three sets, and resulted in a victory for Daily by a score of 7-5, 6-3.

The finishing of the doubles between R. P. Carter and M. A. Chase vs. J. L. Daily and Stetson was played in the morning. The latter won by the score of 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 5-6.

This was a long tedious game, but was finally won by Alexander; score 5-7, 6-4, 6-4.

The prizes were then distributed as originally announced at the beginning of the tournament.

At the polo grounds yesterday afternoon, a game was played between the Riverside and Santa Monica clubs.

Riverside was represented by R. Bettner, G. L. Waring and C. E. Maud. Santa Monica was represented by J. B. Doctor, J. J. MacCall and W. H. Young.

It was rather a one-sided contest, as the Riverside players were winners from the start. The following is the score: Riverside, 7 goals; Santa Monica, 1 goal.

In the Riverside Club Bettner got 6 goals and Maud 1. In the Santa Monica Club Young got the only goal.

A REDONDO ROW.

Two Men Engage in a Fight for a Woman's Favors.

A telephone message was received last night shortly after 12 o'clock from Redondo stating that a row had taken place there just before midnight between a man named Bliss from this city and another fellow known as Maxey of Redondo.

Bliss had been out with Lilly Miller, a woman of whom Maxey was enamored, and the latter became very angry at his rival. Bliss and the woman went to the Casino, where they spent the evening in drinking and dancing.

Maxey came in later on, and after a few words had been exchanged between the two men, Maxey struck at Bliss and knocked the latter down. At the same time the woman made a vicious stab at Bliss with a small knife.

By the time the row was over the Miller woman went into hysterics, and at last accounts had not recovered, her attack seeming to border on insanity.

A Reporter Surprised.

A reporter, who has been looking over the city in the past week, found himself on the University electric cars, going down to the southwest part of the city, and, being attracted by the many fine improvements in and around Hoover, Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth streets, he naturally asked himself "Where am I?" which remark was overheard by a bright little girl, who answered: "Why, don't you know? I do. Why, this is the Harper tract."

Well, this was enough for him, so he began to look around, and he said to himself, "Of all the beautiful spots in Los Angeles, there is none that will surpass this locality." At the present time there are many fine residences being built in this tract. Among those who are building are found many of the prominent people of the city, who wish to get out in the western part, where they can get the pure ocean breeze, and are not crowded for room. But above all, is the secret of taking care of property one has for sale, and then making all who buy agree to put up good improvements. This way, one is always sure of a good class of improvements around one.

STECKEL'S SUCCESS.

Two Gold Medals in the World's Fair Competition.

The Two Highest Prizes Secured Over the Most Eminent Photographers in the Country.—A Great Victory.

The success Mr. Steckel met with in Chicago in competition with some of the most eminent photographers of the day, is indeed a matter Southern California can well feel a pride in, as the World's Fair convention of the Photographic Association of America had the effect of bringing together in competition some of the brightest lights in the profession.

It therefore means a great deal to Mr. Steckel to be able to bring home two gold medals, the two highest prizes offered by the convention on photographs.

The prizes to be competed for in the class for large photographs consisted of a gold medal for first prize, a silver medal for second, and a bronze medal for third, and a number of medals to be competed for in the class for smaller sizes. Among the prominent competitors in the class for large work may be mentioned Frank Place, president of the association; R. Coover, and T. Harrison of Chicago; E. D. & J. E. Rosch, St. Louis; Bowersox, Dayton, Ohio; Seavy & Fowler, Detroit; Coover & Co., Iowa City; Dana, New York; Schumacher, Los Angeles; and others.

The prize winners for this class were: Steckel, gold medal, first prize; Dana, silver medal, second prize; Coover, bronze medal, third prize.

In the class for smaller sizes, the competitors consisted of Dana, New York; Strauss, St. Louis; Stein, Milwaukee and Chicago; Brush, Minneapolis; Pifer & Becker, Cleveland; Harrison, Chicago; E. D. & J. E. Rosch, St. Louis; Schumacher, Los Angeles; Gilbert & Bacon, Philadelphia.

The prize winners for this class were: Steckel, gold medal, first prize; Stein, silver medal, second prize; Gilbert & Bacon, bronze medal, third prize.

There were also several minor awards offered by manufacturers of photo paper which were entirely separate from the association, and had no significance as to the intrinsic merit of the photographs, further than the effect obtained on their particular brand of paper.

Auction Sale of Standard-Bred Trotting Horses.

Monday, September 18, 1893, at 10 o'clock a.m., at Agricultural Park, Los Angeles, Cal.

Not having the necessary range for so many horses I have concluded to dispose of my entire lot of high-bred trotting stock at Public Auction, without reserve, to the highest bidder. The stock consists of my standard bred and registered trotting stallion, RAYMON (1409), race record 2:14, and about 25 head of his sons and daughters; also their dams, some in foal to him and the others in foal to McKinney, 2:14. The mares represent the blood of some of our most noted sires. This is the best lot of stock that has ever been offered by any one breeder in the State. They are all grand individuals, all high bred and first-class in every way. Parties who attend this sale can do so with the utmost confidence as this stock will be sold to the highest bidder. Catalogues with tabulated breeding of this stock will be out on September 2, and can be had at office of E. W. Noyes, 214 N. Spring st.

STOLEN AND COWLED.

The Court of the American Pope.

Practice and Procedure in Ecclesiastical Disputes.

As Defined by Papal Delegate Satolli. How Leo's Envoy Acts.

Ingloriously Beaten at Pool and Billiards. He Can Floor Anybody on Thomistic Subjects—How His Studies English.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

Now that the trip of the apostolic delegate, Mgr. Satolli, through the country is ended, and he has been deemed to have sufficiently acquainted himself with the territorial limit of his ecclesiastical jurisdiction, the "papal suite" at the Catholic University is being renovated for the Italian prelate's occupancy. A heavy consignment of books upon canon law has just come from the Vatican, and is being placed upon the book shelves of the delegate's office, under the supervision of the Rev. Hector Papi. A voluminous report of Mgr. Satolli's trip and its results is nearly completed and goes to the printer. The most wonderful example of the delegate's signature. It will be unique as the first ecclesiastical exposition of our country's resources ever made from the papal point of view, and interesting moreover, owing to young Mgr. Sbarretti's enthusiasm regarding his subject. He considers our republic the most wonderful example of prosperity, enlightenment and intelligence that history affords. This interest in America has prompted the university students to present him with numerous histories of the United States, and these he diligently peruses. He is collecting, it is understood, to the Vatican, a number of miniature paintings of all the Presidents from Washington down.

Mgr. Satolli has had so many cases presented to him that his official capacity that his court will be full of litigants for some time to come. An impression prevails that the most wonderful example of the delegate's signature. It will be unique as the first ecclesiastical exposition of our country's resources ever made from the papal point of view, and interesting more-

The lives led by these three Italian gentlemen are very simple and regular. Satolli's bedroom is on the third hallway, facing the grounds about the university building. It contains one bedstead with no springs, two wooden chairs, one chair, one table, and a washstand. The floor is uncarpeted. On the walls hang two crucifixes, a pair of rosary beads, and an image of one of the saints. On the table are the vantage Bible a prayer-book and a work on Thomistic divinity, a subject on which Satolli is admitted by both Catholics and Protestants to be one of the greatest living authorities. Rarely does the ablegate work in his room. His four walls are reserved for his devotions, meditations and reflections. Occasionally one or two of the students are admitted to the apartment, and long conversations on the Thomistic disputations are then held.

Mgr. Satolli has no personal servant, who he wants anything done he usually does it himself. He rises usually at 5 o'clock every morning. His attire is the black habit of the monks, and the man's whole appearance evinces a total lack of pride in his personal appearance, except that he is always scrupulously clean. The ablegate's voice is low and mild, and his smile is of the rarest. Rarely does a countenance and physiognomy suggest the purely intellectual, so thoroughly as Satolli, and there is an utter absence of that suggestion of subtlety and dissimulation properly associated with the Italian character. Personal magnetism in the best sense of that much abused term is the monsignor's chief characteristic, and all the men and women, Protestant, Catholic, Hebrew, or what not, who have met him in this country like the magnet for his unassuming geniality and courtesy.

The monsignor, after his morning bath, takes to breakfast if he is to say mass in the university chapel. Otherwise, he will drink a cup of coffee with milk or sugar, and eat a biscuit or two. He is then likely to open his faithful friend, St. Thomas. As early as 7 o'clock in the morning, he is often taking a constitutional in the university grounds, book in hand. If he encounters any of the students, he at once opens a conversation, and merely to see the prelate and the budding priest talking and laughing together shows that the monsignor does not stand upon his dignity or rank. These conversations are held in Latin, of which the ablegate is a thorough master. He uses the brilliant continental accent, and from his lips the mint Latin would be "a placebo to a doctor."

By 9 o'clock Satolli is at work in the papal suite, his two assistants with him, and diligently pouring over the arguments in a dispute between a priest and a bishop. PREPARING A DECISION. These decisions are the subject of infinite research on his part among the volumes in the university's superlative library. If to maintain his case, a priest cites some authority on canon laws, or quotes or alludes to a passage in the works of the church fathers, the ablegate consults the volumes and the passage. The entire history of a case is thoroughly gone into. The litigants are called upon to amend their pleadings or state their demands again, if deemed proper. Very often the counsel for the opposing parties comes to the ablegate, and he hears in his library, where any citation can be verified. The scene when Satolli, in a great armchair, his assistants on either side of him, sits at a table, upon which are heaped briefs and tomes, and listens to the arguments of learned clergymen with deep attention, all couched in the purest and most elegant Latin, is highly impressive. So far the ablegate has attended to these disputes with great promptness, and he has been able to grow to a surprising degree. Accordingly, a calendar has been arranged, and hearings are given in due order.

Communications with the Vatican are made regularly and with strict formality—in the Latin language, superfluous to say Satolli being delegate apostolic, and he is in direct communication with the Vatican in place of the Pontiff, with the same authority as the Pontiff himself. He is not controlled by the Vatican in the same sense that Mgr. Sbarretti is. The latter sends official reports to the Vatican monthly, or oftener, as occasion requires. The ablegate is engaged with the title of the apostolic delegation, "F. Satolli," the prelate, and signs himself, "Letto to His Holiness," however, he is signed "Franciscus Arch. Lep." As a rule, correspondence is sent by mail, but on occasion the ablegate goes to Rome to be charged with the delivery of a letter or document. Official business is transacted with the papal secretary of state, and the ablegate has a large number of clerks, who are paid for their services. The ablegate, however, has reason to communicate with the Propaganda Fide.

The luncheon hour is 1 o'clock with Satolli. He has a great appetite, and dining-table, where Bishop Keane and his staff eat. Very often the ablegate will go into the students' dining-hall and eat with them. He rarely uses butter or sugar. Meat, he tastes sparingly. His favorite is the macaroni, and he is not fond of, nor does he touch elaborately prepared dishes, such as beef-steak à la Bernaise, potatoes au gratin or the like. He usually abstains from the use of liquors. Once in awhile, he takes a half glass of wine and vichy. He is a teetotaler, and his principal liquid diet is a drop or two of lemon being squeezed into it now and then.

Satolli retires early, except when some case is being argued. He is not particularly fond of sleep, and he has been known to be asleep for an hour. Satolli is fond of air, and his bedroom windows are open whether the night be cold or warm. He has a great fondness for open air. Satolli's belongings would enrich nobody. Except his archiepiscopal ring and cross, both superb specimens of the jeweler's art, his ecclesiastical principal possessions are a villainous old leather trunk that he brought from Italy, a worn leather bag, and a few books. These objects decorate a corner of his bedroom.

LEARNING OUR LANGUAGE. Forgetting to write, Satolli uses the typewriter, a machine for which his admiration is boundless. He is very dexterous and persevering in the use of the typewriter, and he is infinitely helpful in the study of the English language. The Italian now reads our tongue with ease, and the newspapers of America to him a never-ending source of astonishment. Mgr. Satolli's wonder when he found himself shortly after his arrival the subject of countless newspaper columns, and his features and gestures the targets of the journalist's art, proved very comical. He knows in the original, Whittier's poem, and gets a great interest in reporters, and gets a great information out of them, through his interpreter. He has read the American papers in great quantities, he sends regularly to Rome. Whenever a cartoon or picture in them puzzles him, he asks those about him to explain it, and in this way his knowledge of our politics and life has become quite varied.

The ablegate takes lessons in English pronunciation whenever opportunity offers. He listens to the talk of those about him, and he is infinitely helpful in the study of the English language. The Italian now reads our tongue with ease, and the newspapers of America to him a never-ending source of astonishment. Mgr. Satolli's wonder when he found himself shortly after his arrival the subject of countless newspaper columns, and his features and gestures the targets of the journalist's art, proved very comical. can write English, however, remarkably well. It is his intention to deliver a series of sermons in English next autumn, so far as the employment of his language in the pulpit on two or three occasions only. His method is to write out his discourse, go over it carefully, and then deliver it. He looks over the manuscript. The bishop sometimes recommends the change of a word here and there. After that Satolli memorizes his sermon and repeats it in his room, striving to catch both accent and pronunciation. When he finishes a sermon, he looks over the pulpit it is difficult to believe that he is not a master of our tongue. Satolli, however, does not believe in studied discourses. His ambition is to deliver extemporaneous English sermons. His first effort in this line was at Philadelphia some weeks ago, and he did very well. His sermon was on "Carrying," and his manner earnest and impressive. He possesses the further merit of making his sermons brief.

IN LIGHTER VEIN. At masses and vespers Satolli ranks as a titular archbishop. That is, he may occupy the throne in a cathedral, although, of course, an archbishop in his own city would not have to take second place on the altar simply because Satolli was present. The one exception to the ablegate's unflinching tact and courtesy. Satolli's recreations are simple enough. He has a taste for literature, and his leisure—precious little he has—is devoted to the study of the classics. He is particularly fond of the "Commedia," he profoundly appreciates the "Purgatorio" of the masterpiece of Dante, and he has often said he would like to see the poet of Tasso, and with the many poets of his native land he has little or no acquaintance. The one light of his life is, perhaps, the study. He never wears of conversing upon that topic, and to him it is due, no doubt, the respect and affection based upon that shoreless ocean of erudition to which the "angelic doctor" has risen.

Sometimes a student or two will undertake to initiate the ablegate into the mysteries of pool or billiards in the room of the seminary. Mgr. Satolli is invariably defeated. He is usually, cards are an utter mystery to him, and baseball, if the expression be permitted, "broke him all up" when a young priest once endeavored to explain how our national game is played. The ablegate never visits a theater. It seems generally known that Satolli is connected with some of the noblest houses in Italy, and that he has relatives who are powerful in the financial world. He is a member of the ablegate's salary has been stated to be $3000 a year, but his living expenses are far less than that sum. When the ablegate is in Rome, he is in the Vatican, and he occupies a private car with his suite, and pays for it out of his own pocket. On other occasions, he travels like one of the great public.

He cuts no figure in the social world, although once in awhile a reception in his honor is given at the Vatican. He is a Washington magnate. He appears on occasions in the formal dignity of silk and brocade, distinguished-looking and smiling, and leaves early in the evening. American institutions Satolli warmly admires, and he has been authoritatively stated that there is not a man here, with any intention of making him a member of the country. Our history is familiar to him, and he has made it his study since he came among us. And for the people of the United States he has not failed to express a warm regard, and he has been a firm believer in Roman Catholic doctrine, he fully realizes and respects the convictions of those who honestly hold opinions opposite to his own. He has the American spirit in a word, and has won respect and admiration to such a degree that even those who, like Archbishop Ryan, are not Catholics, have not doubted the wisdom of his mission, have been forced to acknowledge that his coming was one of the most auspicious events that ever befell the church in America.

(Copyright, 1893.) A Quick Turn on Forsyth. The members of the New York Stock Exchange are enjoying a good laugh on D. P. Forsyth, the man who has been conspicuous recently by reason of heavy dealings in currency. When currency was at a premium of 3 per cent, the other day, says the Commercial Advertiser, Forsyth had obtained the sum of $20,000, and the broker returned to the exchange, and finding Forsyth, said: "Come along, old man. Let's go over to Fred Eberlin's and get a drink."

The pair went over, and to the astonishment of Forsyth, the broker presented the check in payment for the refund. "What does this mean?" asked Forsyth. "That's all right. I am only paying for the two glasses of milk we have had."

Having obtained the change, which amounted to $20.50, and which was in current coin, the broker handed the $20, with many thanks for the accommodation, and then asked Forsyth to join him in another, as he had only spare tokens. Forsyth, however, declined with thanks, and walked off in thought.

The Empress of Austria is said to spend nearly half the day in having her hair cared for. During this time she is read to by a number of attendants. Queen Victoria is superstitious about precious stones. She invariably wears a chrysoprase in one form or another, this stone being thought to bring nothing but good luck. She considers it beautiful.

The Empress of Austria has given a written receipt for the State jewels which she wears them, and her Majesty, as a result, usually content herself with her private collection, which is worth $1,500,000.

GEORGE VANDERBILT

The Scholar of Our Plutocracy.

George Washington Vanderbilt Woos Wisdom Amid Luxury.

Croesus and Scalliger Rolled into One Luxurious Bachelor.

Traits and Habits of the Wealthiest Squire Who Ever Neglected Vices for Manners—A Man of Education, Taste and Feeling.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

George Vanderbilt is one of our queer freaks. He is the least known of any of the enormously wealthy men of New York. He must be worth at least $5,000,000, but he might walk the length of the entire city without being recognized by half a dozen persons. He has never been prominent in any public movement. He has never attended a public function where crowds of people congregate, and when he goes to the theater or to the opera, he hides himself in the rear of a box.

But he is a most interesting man, nevertheless. Just now he is at Bar Harbor, where he has a beautiful house, and he is surrounded by the members of the Vanderbilt family, and, perhaps, a few personal friends. He is a great object of interest to the pretty young unmarried women and the young married couples who are attracted to him. He is a bachelor, but he is a bachelor in name only. He is a bachelor in fact, but he is a bachelor in name only.

Formerly he was rated as being next to John Jacob Astor the wealthiest man in New York. He is now, however, having a million dollars in his own right and control for every part of his life. Now, as John Jacob Astor, he is a husband and a father. George Vanderbilt stands at the head of the family.

In the society columns, and once in a while too in the general news and police reports of the New York newspapers, there is a mention of the name of George Vanderbilt. He is a man of wealth, but there is hardly ever any mention made of this son of the house of Vanderbilt.

He is a man of wealth, but there is hardly ever any mention made of this son of the house of Vanderbilt. and George remains the scholar of the family, and seems willing to remain so. Some of George's friends, and he has many warm ones, who are his family, mark rather than mere sparks of fashion, regret that there is any possibility of the young man becoming a Benedictine. Since the death of his father, and since his brothers have set up, so to speak, in fine establishments of their own, George Vanderbilt has been the right arm of his mother, who has never fully recovered from the shock of her husband's sudden and somewhat tragic death. George has remained with her in the stately mansion on Fifth Avenue opposite to St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Some years ago there used to be much talk of George's going to the mountains. He was then a young man of wealth in New York. On some of these apartments an immense amount of money was spent, and many of them were very gorgeously appointed affairs. But it is doubtful if any of them could be compared with the one occupied by young Mr. Vanderbilt. In the alleged waning days of his bachelorhood, these apartments are, as has been said, a masterpiece of architecture, built by his father, and are absolutely his own. No one goes near them except on a special occasion. He has his own corps of servants, who, unlike the others in the house, are responsible only to him. He has a private car, and he has a private train, and that, in this case, was somewhat gorgeous. There are three rooms and bath in all. First, there is a parlor, and then a study, and then a bedroom. # AMONG THE GORILLAS

A VOICE FROM THE WILDERNESS OF JIMBOOIBI.

By R. L. Garner. Author of "The Speech of Monkeys," Etc.

CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES FROM ADVANCE SHEETS OF "CLARENCE" MAGAZINE.

After a long voyage of thirty-six days from England I arrived at Gaboon, the capital of the French Congo, where I was kindly received by the Governor and others, and assured of any aid that they could render me. They manifested great interest in my work and anxiety for success.

During my stay of some weeks there I acquired much information of great value to me about the distribution of various tribes, and also of the apes. In the meantime I paid a visit to the King of the Mpongwe people, in his country called Dendi, lying on the south side of the Gaboon River. The name of the King is Adande Ropé, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

The dignity of King in Africa does not rank with such a title in Europe. Here his powers are but little superior to those of any other native. He works, hunts, leads, begs and does as others do. I must make an exception of the King of the Mpongwe people, in his country called Dendi, lying on the south side of the Gaboon River. The name of the King is Adande Ropé, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

A visit to the King here is not a matter of such pomp and ceremony as a visit to the King of the Mpongwe people, in his country called Dendi, lying on the south side of the Gaboon River. The name of the King is Adande Ropé, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

Leaving Gaboon near the beginning of the year I came to this section, known as the Forest of the Mpongwe people, in his country called Dendi, lying on the south side of the Gaboon River. The name of the King is Adande Ropé, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

On my return I went into the Lake Ezzanga section, where I had heard that there were many gorillas. The gorilla is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

I must digress for a moment to tell you what a superb lake the Ezzanga is. It is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man. He is a very powerful man, and he is a very powerful man.

When one comes to the Ezzanga, the waters broaden to an inland sea, with only a few islands of a larger size. Some of these are skirted with wide bands of grass, sometimes sweeping away into a long vista between the trees, spreading out its green lap, in which is nursed a solitary bird, or which feeds the herds of hippopotami which lead a life of idle luxury along these fertile shores and in the lonely waters of this sea of dreams.

Coming down to the Ezzanga, I spent four days in a native village of the Orungu tribe. The town is called M'biro, but I do not know what the name signifies, unless it is mud. It is kindly treated by the people, who de-been made for her at Paris and in London. Notwithstanding the fact that the Emperor Mutsu Hito addresses the monarch of Europe "sire and brother," and aspires to be treated and regarded by them as in every way monarch of equal civilization and enlightenment to their own, he still continues to maintain an immense establishment of concubines, one of whom is the mother of a young heir to the throne, the Empress herself being childless. It is difficult to know whether all the marvelous reforms that have taken place during the reign of Mutsu Hito have originated with himself, or whether he has merely yielded in these matters to the influence of his advisers. The fact, however, remains that during the last twenty years he has transformed himself from a semi-divine and irresponsible despot into the constitutional sovereign of a country which many believe to be now on the eve of becoming a republic.

It would take me too far to do more than briefly refer to the minor monarchs of Asia, such as, for instance, the pleasant monarch of Siam, the young King of Corea, arrayed in his royal robes of red; the remarkably enlightened and progressive King of Siam, who is a native of the country, and who has mastered the English language, but English and French as well, so that he now speaks and writes them readily as his native tongue, and is familiar with all the leading magazines and newspapers of these countries. Nor are they merely for show. They bear marks of use. There, surrounded by his friends or visitors, the King spends several hours every day keeping himself in touch with the times and striving to bring his kingdom out of oriental lethargy into the keen vitality of the Western world. Immediately after his coronation, King Chulalongkorn began a series of reforms and progress which has now reached results of magnificent proportions. He began by adopting, save on special occasions, European dress. He abolished the old form of salutation, by touching the forehead to the ground, and bade his visitors walk up to him and make hands, like men. He proclaimed religious liberty throughout his realm, and decreed the protection of Christians in their observance of the Sabbath. He reformed the executive and judicial branches of the government, lightened taxation, partially abolished slavery, opened new canals and roads, established an admirable postal service, built telegraphs, lighthouses and a railroad; surveyed and improved all navigable waters; founded a fine system of public schools, built hospitals, asylums, temples and art museums; introduced innumerable useful inventions, and set to his people a fine example of industry, example of virtuous, temperate, industrious, upright and exalted manhood.

Then, too, there were the monarchs of India, one of whom, the ruler of Jeypore, has announced his intention of visiting the Chicago exhibition. What a prize personage an admirer would have secured had they been able to include in their World's Fair his wonderful astronomical observatory, centuries old, and of great interest, or his stables, covering ten acres of ground. The horses, many hundred in number, are kept double-quilted, notwithstanding the heat, and are fed on a mixture of meat, brown sugar and butter, which renders them as fat as porkers. But more interesting than these will be the spectacle presented in Chicago by the Maharajah of Jeypore himself, for he is one of those Asiatic monarchs who represent more truly the system, the doctrines and the semi-divine prerogative of monarchy than any European kings or emperors. He is a man of short stature, and of a dignified and noble bearing, and the Lord diminished by that bugbear of royalty, namely, a constitution.

MARQUE DE FONTENAY.

The Frenchman and Literature.
(New York Evening Sun.) French women of the great world in this century have been content with honors of the salon. Recently, however, they have taken to literature. This is of the melancholy and romantic sort. The Countess d'Haussonville and Duchess d'Avray have written together a volume of poems which they call "Poussiere." "La Vie Sombre" is a collection of verses by the Duchess de la Roche-Guyon. These ladies are a little timid, and do not sign their own names, but practice a fashionable eccentricity in their signatures. The latter writer appends to her verses "L'Annee La Lamartine." The two former "L'Annee Shakespeare." The Duchess d'Avray is one of the ladies who aspire to follow in the footsteps of Mme. de Sevigne. Her writings are signed "Manuela." At a recent soiree some verses were read by Marquise de Pimodan, which everybody present said were impressive for their melancholy grandeur and warlike sentiments. These are a combination of qualities somewhat extraordinary. The difference between literature as it attracts the Frenchwoman and the frank discussions of social topics that have induced English women of rank to take up their pens is worth noting.

Boyle Heights Fire.

The fire of which a brief mention was published in yesterday's paper occurred yesterday morning at 631 Mitchell Place on Boyle Heights. A small barn, in which were kept a horse and cow, belonging to Hugo Knidger, was burned, together with the two animals. When the engines arrived there was no water, and the only thing that could be done was to let the fire burn itself out and devote attention to saving the nearby buildings by using the chemical engine. The damage was estimated at $400.

Is Bronson Howard getting "French" in his old age? One who sees the third act of "Aristocracy" and the extremely risqué scene between Diana Stockton and the Prince von Haldenwald, may be pardoned for asking the question, but he need scarcely insist upon an answer. However, he may be pardoned for saying that if Mr. Howard isn't getting "French," he ought to take in his sign.

While one may demur at both the European and American type of aristocracy which the playwright has seen fit to create, there is doubtless an artful method in the creation. When one recalls the Belle Biltons, the May Yokes and the other dancers and high-kickers who have married into the nobility abroad, he feels like withholding any severe criticism of the "cross-the-post" sort of aristocracy delineated, and to have considerable patience with Jefferson Stockton in his one-sided talk with the portraits that hang upon the wall of the English manor house.

That the nobility of Europe has degenerated until it is almost an impossibility for the most accomplished writer to burlesque it, needs not the saying here, but earnest and industrious as are the tuff-hunters of New York, none of them are quite so rank, surely, as the Laurences of the metropolis whom Mr. Howard has used to point his moral. In truth, the man who talks about an aristocracy in America is talking about something that has no existence. Without patents of nobility, without reigning families, without an especial class, fed at the public crib, it is impossible to have an aristocracy other than the intangible one of brains, and hence America has no aristocracy, and it is not like to have until some greater Cleveland proclaims himself "Dictator" with a sufficiency of backing to enable him to carry out the bluff.

Robert Mantell was born in the land of cakes thirty-five years ago, and at the age of 4 years was taken by his parents to Ireland, where he was educated. Although intended for the bar, his strong leaning toward a histrionic career dominated, and he went upon the stage long after leaving his alma mater in Dublin.

After an extensive schooling with the most famous players of England, he came to the United States in 1874, and to date neither the States nor Mr. Mantell have had cause to regret the coming.

He played small parts in the past years, learned to admire Mr. Mantell, not alone for his physical beauty, but for the artistic touch which he gives to all his characters.

This sterling actor will appear here tomorrow night in "The Face in the Moonlight." Tuesday in "Monbars," Wednesday, "The Cordian Brothers," and Thursday in "Hamlet."

IN THE FOYER.

Hopeful Jefferys Lewis is in New York looking for a play and a manager.

Edie Elliser is appearing this season in a new play, "Doris," by Robert Dronet.

Daniel Sully will play "Auld Lang Syne" and "Conroy, the Tailor," this season.

Anna Allen of the Allen sisters has been engaged for Leavitt's Spider and Fly company.

Edward E. Rice's new two-act burlesque is called "Tobacco." Is it hot enough for you?

Fay Templeton has had a very advantageous offer to star next season in a musical comedy.

E. S. Willard is appearing this season in a new play called "Wealth," by Henry Arthur Jones. He is repeating his old success gained in "The Middleman."

A cable from London says that Miss Ellen Terry will retire from the stage after her American tour.

Hayden Coffin is going to Australia to witness the engagement with Lillian Russell's company.

The Dixey "tigers," who were with Frank Daniels season before last, have signed with him for this season.

Letitia has reconsidered her determination to return to the stage this season, and will wait another year.

W. T. Carlton has abandoned the idea of taking out an opera company next season, and instead will go abroad for a long rest.

Katherine Grey, who came out to California with the late Mrs. Barrymore, has been engaged to play the leading role in "Shore Acres."

"Pain Heart" is the name of the play in which Clara Lipman and Louis Mann will star next season. Mrs. D. Verdenal, a Californian, is the author.

Hall Caine, the author of "The Deemster," proposes to come to America to witness the production of his latest play, "Mohammed," by E. S. Willard.

Caroline Hamilton, our Californian prima donna, is in New York completing plans for next season. For the past two years she has been with the "Bostonians." Next week she sails for Europe, her first trip abroad.

Miss Elbe Vining is singing a little song in the last act of "The New South." It is the ballad "The Sweetheart of All the Year," words by Madeline S. Bridges of New York and music by Lella France of California.

Salvini, the great tragedian, will arrive in America in September. He comes to visit his son and to see the World's Fair. Young Salvini has remained in this country all summer, industriously studying "Hamlet" and "The Fool's Revenge," which he will add to his repertoire next season.

Frank Conant, manager of the Robin Hood Company, leaves today for New York to join his company, which begins rehearsals in New York September 4, and will open its season in Albany a few days later. Much to the regret of Manager Conant, his route does not lead West this year, but he hopes to bring his clever people out to us later on.

"Old Kentucky" is liable to create something of a sensation when it goes out, if it contains the novelties it is credited with. It is described as an idyllic picture of Kentucky life with sufficient action and spirit in it to make it go. It is not a natty-pamby, insipid thing, but a play, as the brand-new superintendents with bull heads on 'em who started the game.

So there!

It must be just lovely to be a solid six and go gallivanting around the country in Mr. Pullman's car at the expense of the town, looking at stoves and heaters with a wide, look, and all the time about what sort of a stove it is best to put in; one of the famous smokers of the times that cost $3000 or so, with a little something on the side.

My alert observation leads me to believe that the business of the country gets heavier than the other end and stays heavier, that there's something wrong with it, if other words, that the business of the country is in a bad way, and that the business of the country is in a bad way, and that the business of the country is in a bad way.

One of those inflammatory women has broken loose back East, and is whooping it up for anarchy and trying to have people with large openings in their face, or faces, as the case may be, get out in the open country, and howling, and eventually we are not your time to howl, and the police will oblige us Eagle people by subsidizing an early day. Surely, Emma, there is something of trouble in the country, all the way from bankrupt banks to an unsettled and wide-open silver question, without all of us having to listen to the likes of you. Say, Emma, hark hark I read you the riot act. Get in out of the wet; move on; don't block up the sidewalk. In fact, whoa, Emma!

THE EAGLE.

He enjoys it.

(Daily America.) Mr. Johnson, How is your husband?

Mrs. Deserter. Enjoying bad health, thank you.

Mr. Johnson. How can he enjoy bad health?

Mrs. Deserter. He is on the pension list.

The Eagle finds any quantity of people sauntering about their children up in a refrigerator or a crematory because it will get them "out from under foot" and "off the streets," only there is a law against that sort of thing, and so they bicker about the next best thing, which is for the schools to open.

There are lots and lots of people who are half crazy to send their little ones to school, not because of any good it does the little humans, but because somebody else has to look after them and the little fellows are thus kept from "bothering" round.

That class of people are applauding the action of the School Board in opening the schools in September, the very hottest and meanest month of all the glad new year in Southern California.

They even write letters to the newspapers—some of them do—in which they assert that September, for weather, just lays over any blooming month in the calendar, and even go so far as to claim that the fall rains frequently begin then, and all that sort of thing.

Now, of course, it is utterly useless to argue with a reckless cuss who monkeys with the truth like that, so the Eagle bird is not going to do it; but the same time he will repeat again that this thing of piling little children into the sweat-boxes at school a day before October, in this country, is cruelly to kids, as it were, and the heartless parent who insists that it is the correct thing to do isn't much of a parent.

Augustus P. Dunlop has blossomed out as the editor of the New Dramatic News. The paper is apparently a successor to Leinster Richardson's defunct New York Dramatic News. If this new venture means that Mr. Dunlop is a hundred percent of his clever little weekly critic of the city of the theaters, called Stage News, dramatic editors throughout the country are so-called long on the ground.

LAY SERMONS.

There is no better text in the world for men to live by than the lightly considered one of "mind your own business." Taken in its full meaning, it is in all that it embraces, there is none more comprehensive, and none that would lift us to a higher life, to broader conceptions of duty than this. Ily thought of, much abused maxim, it was but live up to the fullness of all that it conveys. Worldly affairs—affairs of trade or commerce—all the multifarious concerns of the business world, do not by any means constitute the larger part of man's business. There are other and higher matters that are embraced in this, vaster in their influence and more serious in their import. Let us consider some of these as we look at the meaning of the term "business."

Webster defines business as "that which busies, or that which occupies the time, attention, or labor of one, as his principal concern." What, then, is our business? First, it is our business to cultivate all of our powers. There are like no such capital on hand that our Father has lent to us, and for which we must finally render an account. Are we availing ourselves of the fullness of the gifts of God? Are we making the most of the talents which he has entrusted to us? Are we making the most of the talents which he has entrusted to us?

Then, again, it is our business to do our duty. We are told that "no man liveth to himself." As silent and unseen as the calm air which envelops us is that subtle thing forever emanating from our lives, which we call influence. Every act we perform, and every word we utter has to do with it, and helps to make up the volume of its story. It is for this that we are responsible, and it is our business to make that influence forever on the side of that which is true and right, and elevating and holy. We do not mind our own business when we fail to do this, and fail to make use of those higher opportunities which come to us, making our influence like a mighty lever for the uplifting of the race. Again, it is our business, first of all, to give our hearts to God, and to live in accordance with His requirements. That divine life, that eternal life, the life of Christ, it is ours to seek and to emulate. And shall we slight this "business" of ours or regard it of little moment? It is not business for time alone, but for the eternity of being. Therefore, the Christian would say, in tones of tender pleading, "mind your own business."

It is getting to be regarded as a matter of course that Los Angeles should head the list of American cities in the weekly report of bank clearings. Such is the case again this week. All the cities show a decrease, the average being over 32 per cent., while Los Angeles shows a decrease of only 9 per cent.

WOMAN AND HOME

TOILERS' HOMES.

Sociological Problems Worked Out at the World's Fair.

College Women Set Up Model Houses, Families and Bills of Fare—One Woman a Home—What a Family of Six May Have.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

To maintain a family of six comfortably, hygienically and happily on $200 a year a man needs a $2000 wife. The speaker was a thin and hungry bachelor. He mopped his brow as he vented this conclusion, made from a study of the model family living in the New York State model workman's home at the World's Fair. Unwittingly the bachelor's summary strikes the keynote to the sociological problems of the day. Not until the woman of his home learns to apply exact knowledge to her homely, every-day affairs will the best living at the least cost be possible to the wage-earner.

None realize this more keenly than college-bred women. It is they who are conducting the varied sociological experiments now being made at the World's Fair to practically demonstrate the economic, hygienic and comfortable living that lies within the means of the wage-earner. One of the most interesting of these experiments is the New York State model workman's home, located at the terminus of the Intramural Railroad, in close proximity to the Anthropological building.

The house was opened July 1, and a constant, ever-changing crowd of people continues to inspect its situation, ventilation, heating, furnishing, and to watch the progress of the housekeeping and family living upon carried on therein by a Chicago widow, three lusty children and a wholesome-looking Columbian guard, who fulfills the role of "chief lord" of this model household by devoting daily three square meals prepared under the scientific supervision of Miss Catherine B. Davis, a graduate of Vassar and a student of chemistry at Barnard College.

PHOTOGRAPH BY SALMON OF VASSAR THE PRO- DUCTOR.

The idea of building this model house on the fair ground originated two years ago with Prof. Lucy Salmon, of Vassar College.

The plan was submitted respectfully to the Board of Lady Managers and to the afford to build and rent to this pair at $10 a month. F. B. Pratt, secretary of Pratt's Institute, provided the architectural plans. The house is a frame dwelling on piles, with an elevation of a story and a half, and covering a lot 26x28 feet. It has a front entry and a side porch. The hallway is six feet wide with a staircase on one side. On the first floor is a kitchen 12x13 feet with a good-sized pantry, a sink with hot and cold water. A living-room, with three windows, open fireplace and two doors, adjoins the kitchen. A bathroom, 4x6 feet, provided with a tub, is adjacent and completes the first floor. The plumbing is confined to the kitchen, and is the best that sanitary engineers can provide.

The second floor has two large rooms about the same size. The largest is 13x14 feet. Both have closets and windows opposite each other, so that ventilation can be insured. A small third room on the floor has a window, making it a light and airy room, and permits of its use as a bedroom. The interior walls are all painted, and the ceilings can be washed. Wall papers are eschewed as possibly dangerous to health, impossible to clean and requiring too frequent renewing.

Outside build, a gable roof and a brick chimney complete the simple and neat dwelling, which it is calculated can be built anywhere for $1000.

The architect's plan, as advertised at the fair, is open to improvement. In point of construction, material and workmanship, $1000 ought to build a better house than this model one.

Defects in the construction, however, are largely due to the limited time allowed, the high price of labor, scarcity of skilled workmen, and the greed of contractors who often refused to deliver a keg of nails or a load of lumber until the money was first put into their hands.

Nevertheless the house is a revelation to rich and poor. It calls out dead in earnest and intelligent inquiries from the capitalist and the wage-earner alike. The architect's plan is a model, and it is on sale for 25 cents. A woman with large investments in tenement property, confessed that it opened her eyes to the possibility of making tenants vastly more comfortable.

FURNITURE AND CLOTHES.

The furnishings of the house and the family wardrobe was the personal work of Miss Davis. She bought everything at retail price, just as the laboring man's wife would have to do.

Every article is marked with the cost price. The sitting room has a couch with gray colored covering and cushions. Volumes of standard works are on a shelf. Tasteful prints of masterpieces are on the wall. Bric-a-brac is here and there.

Single iron beds are in the bedrooms. Shaded, not curtains, are at the windows. The whole is substantial, comfortable and attractive, while the total cost does not exceed $300.

A large doll in a cradle impersonates the infant terrible of this model family. In a chest of drawers is the infant's wardrobe, each piece neatly folded and labeled with the cost and amount of material used. Ten dollars covers the cost of the baby's outfit. In various closets and drawers is the family wardrobe properly labeled.

The wife has six dresses, two dark calicoes for morning, two light seersuckers for afternoon, and two wool dresses, one for summer and one for winter, both of which Miss Davis purchased of materials that will wash, turn and finally make over into bonnets and tuckers for the children. Two bonnets and two coats for all seasons, and bought with an eye to eternal service, complete this woman's trousseau. The husband is equally well provided.

The children's wardrobe consists largely of made-over garments, an easy matter if an industrious mother learns that it is true economy to buy the best goods at the beginning.

All these things, together with the bed linen, towels and comfortables—the latter hand-made at a cost of 91 cents each—are eagerly inspected by knowing women, many of whom come away with their ideas which they intend to put in practice. The vital value of this unique experiment culminates in the kitchen, where a scientific store and the latest labor-saving utensils facilitate the preparation of meals of nutritious diet at minimum cost, meals that every time contains the whole number of ounces of protein, fat and carbohydrates which science says the human body daily requires.

Oblivious of the gaze of visitors the household affairs go on daily. The members were examined and weighed by a physician before entering upon the novel experiment, and they will be weighed again at the end of a month to see if they have thriven on these scientific bills of fare.

"Do you get enough to eat?" I asked the Columbian guard.

Smacking his lips after an Irish stew, he looked down on me from his properly they give both the necessary nourishment and comfort."

WHAT A FAMILY OF SIX MAY HAVE AT TABLE.

Here are a sample menu: Breakfast (Monday)—Bilk toast, baked beans, coffee, milk, sugar; cost, 13 cents.

Dinner—Brown rice, beef with gravy, potatoes sliced with milk, hominy with sugar, apple syrup; cost, 22 cents.

Supper—Cottage meal, griddle-cakes, minced beef with gravy; cost, 17 cents. Total cost, 52 cents.

Tuesday—Breakfast: Crushed wheat, milk, bread and butter, French fried potatoes; cost, 15 cents.

Dinner: Fried liver and bacon, baked potatoes, bread and butter, baked beans, from day before; cost, 19 cents.

Supper: Pea soup, bread and butter, syrup, tea; cost, 12 cents.

Total, 46 cents.

Under the fun of "making believe," which this model house yields to the skeptical, lies a generosity of purpose and an ultimate view which, successfully worked out, will be a valuable contribution of light open to the great matter-of-fact problem of home living for the wage-earner.

MRS. RICHARDS' AND MRS. ABE'S DEMONSTRATION.

Scarcely less interesting is the Rumford Inn, conducted by Mrs. Ellen H. Richards, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and Mrs. Abel, of the New England Kitchen, so successfully conducted in Boston and New York. The unpainted frame house is christened after Count Rumford, the advocate of scientific cooking, and whose centenary is celebrated this year.

Rumford Inn is a practical exhibition of scientific cooking; the preparation of cereals and meats is so get the nutrition at the least cost. Mrs. Daniels presides over the inn.

Meals are prepared and served before the visitor at a minimum cost; the methods explained, and the latest improvements in the manipulation of heat and ovens are demonstrated. At the foot of each printed bill-of-fare is a schedule showing the ingredients, and their proportion, contained in the food served. Rumford Inn is also appropriately located near the Anthropological building.

ANOTHER WORKMAN'S HOME.

In the Midway Plaisance, at the extreme end, "sociology" proves another very pleasant thing to the wage-earner by the means of the "Philadelphia Workingman's Model Home."

"Philadelphia, the city of homes, is a dingy city by the side of Paris," says Talbot Williams in the April St. Nicholas. "The city of homes is or never will have done more to make families comfortable."

In Philadelphia any industrious, saving man can own his own home before he dies. It is the only city in the world in which this is true. Ability to use money after it is earned is a virtue which Philadelphia by savings banks, which depositors for themselves manage, in order to get together the money to pay for a house. These banks are called "building associations."

There are in Philadelphia 500 of these associations, which have lent money to 50,000 persons who were securing homes for themselves. In the last sixty years 80,000 homes were bought in this way. Most of the houses belong to the workingmen, and cost from $2500 to $3500. What kind of houses are they?

The one erected in the Midway Plaisance answers the question.

There is nothing more wonderful in the exposition than this proof that the laws of the human mind are so arranged that even the day-laborer, earning only $8 or $10 a week, can own the roof over his head and call no man landlord.

BEFORE THE DAY OF DOMESTIC SCIENCE.

Across the road from the Philadelphia Workingman's Home is a sermon in logs. "Ye Ye Olden Tyme" evokes rights for ancient housewives who were out their lives polishing inanimate things and making the domestic pot revolve at tremendous expenditure of time and waste of physical force. Sentimentalists in the tarry in the antique of old home, with bellows, spinning-wheel, loom and bed, that requires a ladder to reach, and sigh for the good old times; but women in general thank God for the blessings involved in the Philadelphia and New York Workingman's Home.

OUTING COSTUMES FOR DOLLS.

With Patterns for Little Dressmakers—A Jacket and a Blazer.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

The most that those little girls need who have had sewing lessons at school—as most little Boston girls have, at least—in order to make handsome autumn outing suits for their dolls, is to have some good reliable patterns. There are always to be found pieces of cloth in all houses, since there were any houses at all, just fit to make dolls' suits.

In some towns it is quite fashionable, however, for little girls to save their pocket money and go shopping, on the mammas do, to buy pretty remnants for gowns for their dolls. Dolls are wearing Eton suits this summer, and blazer suits.

The skirts for either suit may be cut in any of the fashionable full shapes. Patterns for several are here given.

HOW TO ENLARGE PATTERNS.

These patterns can be enlarged to fit any doll.

An easy way to do this is to cut out each piece of the newspaper pattern and lay it on a sheet of paper, pinning it securely. With a ruler measure along each side an inch out beyond it, putting dots at intervals. When one piece is all surrounded by dots trace a line following them. This will give a new outline just so much larger than the original pattern here printed. Continue round with the dots again, making an outline an inch larger all around every time, and so on until each piece of the pattern is large enough for the doll.

Then cut out the pattern, following the outline last made.

THE FASHIONABLE CIRCULAR SKIRT.

An easy way to make a full skirt is to cut a large circle of cloth with another circle in its center just a trifle larger than the doll's waist.

This must be trimmed off around the bottom until the distance from the center circle to the edge of the big circle is the right length of the skirt.

After a short cut has been made from the inner circle for a pocket-hole, it can be tried on. The pocket-hole must, of course, be cut with the thread of the cloth. Face these edges and the bottom of the skirt. Gather the skirt slightly each side of the pocket-hole until it fits the doll's waist; then put on a band. It is then ready for trimming. If you wish, but as most outing suits are now left perfectly plain it does not need any. Instead, in place of facing, you can line the entire skirt with bright silk. It will then look like a new dress. In all the patterns here given the edges that fit together are numbered alike. The dotted V-shaped marks in the skirt patterns indicate where darts are to be taken in. The fullness at the back of the skirts is to be laid in pleats.

A JACKET AND A BLAZER.

The jacket, of course, is to be made

Model family of New York State workman's model house.

Woman's State Board of Illinois. Both rejected it as too expensive to be practical. Prof. Salmon's original idea was to exhibit a model house for the average well-to-do family, a house expressive of the latest sanitary and artistic developments.

Finally some word of the project reached the ears of John Boyd Thatcher, chairman of the New York State Committee. He urged its modification, so that it should be solely in the interest of the workingman. In this revised form the State of New York erected the house, furnished it, and provided a family of six to live in it and demonstrate by economy and scientific cooking and personal industry how comfortably, hygienically and happily a workingman's family can maintain themselves on $200 a year.

ONE WAGE-EARNER TO A HOME.

The husband in this model house is the only wage-earner; the wife is supposed to stay at home and make the most of her "man's" money.

The couple are supposed to have saved $400 from their earnings before marriage; $100 of this sum has been used to start a bank account, while the remaining $300 has been devoted to the furnishing of the house.

MENT $10 A MONTH.

How good a house could a capitalist powerful six feet. "If I don't get enough," he said, "it's because I don't know how to take it."

Miss Davis carefully weighs every article used in the cooking, and the remnants of the meals are also measured. So far, everything has succeeded. The experiment was tried. Tables of statistics showing how successful the experiment has been in all its details will be published at the close of the fair.

The bill of fare for each day, and the cost of each meal and the total, is pinned on the wall, and men and women eagerly copy it. So far the table has not cost over 55 cents a day for the whole family.

"I feel now that with just $1 more a week I could furnish them luxuries," said Miss Davis, who brings to her trying task performed daily before the public gaze the absorbing interest of the enthusiast and the calculation of the trained woman. "I buy all the food at stores in the vicinity," she added, "just as any workingman's wife would. I am surprised to find the prices in Chicago no higher than in Eastern cities. Some things, such as milk, I buy in the grounds; of course, it is higher priced than I could get it outside. The meats we use are by no means choice cuts, but by cooking them of the same material as the skirts are. When the seams of the jacket have been sewed, face the part that will fold over (as marked) for a label. The back of the neck is faced and left without a collar. The rest of the front and the bottom are hemmed or faced.

The sleeve pattern may be thought a queer-looking thing, but when it is cut in cloth and its one seam is sewed and the full part over the top is gathered and the bottom is faced, it is a very stylish sleeve, indeed, and is ready to sew in. Keep the fullness over the shoulder.

It is more work to make a blazer. It has more pieces. The part below the back seam is faced and hem-pleated under to form an opening at the back. The collar is made double and joined on to the neck exactly back of where the lapels turn over.

THE SHIRT WAIST.

The shirt waist will be pretty made of thin, white stuff, silk or cambric. It is easy to make. It is gathered at the waist line, and it is provided with a belt of the same, or of ribbon. The part that hangs below the belt is hemmed. The sleeves are gathered full around the hand and they are full over the shoulders. If desired, a ruffle of lace may be put around the neck instead of the collar and down on one side of the front.

A HASTY PIAZZA SCREEN.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

To possess a piazza is to expect perfect summer comfort and coolness; but with the ordinary country veranda most people find it cooler inside the house at certain hours of the day. In September and October, the most delightful country months of the year, the full morning sunshine is welcome, but at noon and two or three hours after, it is too hot for an unprotected stay on the piazza. Every one signs for the shelter of a curtain or an awning, but many suppose such comforts expensive and troublesome, conveniences for the rich only.

There are perfectly satisfactory home-arranged curtains to be had, inexpensive and good for dozens of years. A couple hours' work will make and hang these simple affairs.

The material is such as will stand sun, wind and rain—common straw matting. I have seen a particularly attractive set made of cream-colored straw, having large blue and brown Japanese figures on the surface.

Measure the distance from the piazza cornice to the floor, or to the railing of the balcony if there is one, and cut a quarter of a yard extra. Cut off as many strips of this length as will be needed.

The ends which are nailed to the roof should have a stout cloth binding four inches deep; pint or denim, now to be had in various colors, is strong and does not fade.

Across the bottom edge nail three strips of wood an inch apart. These may be bought in any window-shade store for a few cents—they are such as are used for hanging and fastening shades. A binding is now to be put on deep, enough to cover the wood.

Before you nail to the cornice throw a big cord over each curtain, so that you can roll them when not in use, and to any height preferred.

AVOWING ECONOMY.

A Hint for the Times That Try Men's Suits.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

The question of "means" for many clever, well-born people is narrowing so closely that no one ought to be embarrassed in avowing the most studious economy.

The idea of paying three or four dollars for one dish of meat for dinner for a simple family does not commend itself to my wants or desires. I am able to listen unmoved when my "first-class cook" dilates on the excellence of her last place, "where there was only three in the family, and they always had three kinds of meat for dinner, a roast and game and a made dish or two and pastry from the confectioner." I can face that critical and elevated being with the usual coolness and composure of a dinner of hash or a lunch of toast and chocolate alone if it so pleases me.

Five courses for those who wish and can afford them. There is always plenty at my table and I hope always to be of one dish, when I cannot afford more. A crusty eat, sweetly with the flavor of independence.

These are Bank Presidents' Hard Days.

(New York Press.) "After this panic is over and anecdote reminiscences are told of the experiences of some of our banks, the public will realize that the better than we are doing now how great the strain has been and how, after all, the most jealous care has been taken by banking institutions of customers and the business community. Such was the experience of one of the ablest bankers of this city, and he knew of what he was talking, since he has been most prominent in the councils of the clearing-house. His comment was suggested by the action of one of the great banks of the city, the City of New York, in the necessity for a large sum of currency. The bank itself was not able to pay out so great a sum upon an instant's notice. Its president was satisfied that his customer needed the cash for a heavy payroll. He authorized some of his subordinates to go into the market, and he bought the currency needed, paying 3 per cent. for it, and paid it out to his customer, not charging him any premium, and on the same day this bank president, in order to save the bank a further embarrassment, ordered his brokers to buy from the Bank of England $2,000,000 in gold at whatever premium was demanded, which he will pay out to his customers according to their checks, and without charging a premium when the gold arrives. Yet the common opinion in the West and South of New York banks is that they are Shylocks.

Jocko and the Cat.

(Our Dumb Animals.) As an example of the reasoning powers of monkeys Mr. Darwin tells a story of one that was scratched by a pet kitten. At first Jocko was immensely amazed. Recovering from his surprise, however, he set to work to discover the location of the cat. After a search he found the cat in the four feet of the kitten in his clutches, saw the nails thrust from their guards, and with the broadest grin of satisfaction, forthwith proceeded determinedly to bite off the point of the same material as the skirts are. When the seams of the jacket have been sewed, face the part that will fold over (as marked) for a label. The back of the neck is faced and left without a collar. The rest of the front and the bottom are hemmed or faced.

The sleeve pattern may be thought a queer-looking thing, but when it is cut in cloth and its one seam is sewed and the full part over the top is gathered and the bottom is faced, it is a very stylish sleeve, indeed, and is ready to sew in. Keep the fullness over the shoulder.

It is more work to make a blazer. It has more pieces. The part below the back seam is faced and hem-pleated under to form an opening at the back. The collar is made double and joined on to the neck exactly back of where the lapels turn over.

THE SHIRT WAIST.

The shirt waist will be pretty made of thin, white stuff, silk or cambric. It is easy to make. It is gathered at the waist line, and it is provided with a belt of the same, or of ribbon. The part that hangs below the belt is hemmed. The sleeves are gathered full around the hand and they are full over the shoulders. If desired, a ruffle of lace may be put around the neck instead of the collar and down on one side of the front.

A HASTY PIAZZA SCREEN.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

To possess a piazza is to expect perfect summer comfort and coolness; but with the ordinary country veranda most people find it cooler inside the house at certain hours of the day. In September and October, the most delightful country months of the year, the full morning sunshine is welcome, but at noon and two or three hours after, it is too hot for an unprotected stay on the piazza. Every one signs for the shelter of a curtain or an awning, but many suppose such comforts expensive and troublesome, conveniences for the rich only.

There are perfectly satisfactory home-arranged curtains to be had, inexpensive and good for dozens of years. A couple hours' work will make and hang these simple affairs.

The material is such as will stand sun, wind and rain—common straw matting. I have seen a particularly attractive set made of cream-colored straw, having large blue and brown Japanese figures on the surface.

Measure the distance from the piazza cornice to the floor, or to the railing of the balcony if there is one, and cut a quarter of a yard extra. Cut off as many strips of this length as will be needed.

The ends which are nailed to the roof should have a stout cloth binding four inches deep; pint or denim, now to be had in various colors, is strong and does not fade.

Across the bottom edge nail three strips of wood an inch apart. These may be bought in any window-shade store for a few cents—they are such as are used for hanging and fastening shades. A binding is now to be put on deep, enough to cover the wood.

Before you nail to the cornice throw a big cord over each curtain, so that you can roll them when not in use, and to any height preferred.

AVOWING ECONOMY.

A Hint for the Times That Try Men's Suits.

Specially Contributed to The Times.

The question of "means" for many clever, well-born people is narrowing so closely that no one ought to be embarrassed in avowing the most studious economy.

The idea of paying three or four dollars for one dish of meat for dinner for a simple family does not commend itself to my wants or desires. I am able to listen unmoved when my "first-class cook" dilates on the excellence of her last place, "where there was only three in the family, and they always had three kinds of meat for dinner, a roast and game and a made dish or two and pastry from the confectioner." I can face that critical and elevated being with the usual coolness and composure of a dinner of hash or a lunch of toast and chocolate alone if it so pleases me.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Hechtman, No. 718 Vernon street, presented an attractive appearance Wednesday evening, the grounds being lighted with Japanese lanterns, and the rooms decorated with pepper bouquets and flowers. The event was a farewell party tendered by Mrs. Hechtman, Mrs. L. Glascock and Miss Minerva Van Matre to Miss Jennie Durgan and Miss Glascock. Miss Durgan goes East to visit relatives and attend the World's Fair. Miss Glascock goes North to accept a position as teacher. During the evening dancing was enjoyed to music furnished by the Hellingworth brothers, and afterward refreshments were served.

Those present included: Mrs. A. J. Hechtman, Mr. and Mrs. Glascock, Miss Minerva Van Matre, Mrs. W. P. Lyons, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Holden and daughter, Miss Jennie Durgan, Miss P. Glascock, Miss L. Glascock, Miss A. Lyons, Miss Cathy Lyons, Miss and Mr. Symons, Miss Maud Symons, Mr. and Mrs. Huston, Mrs. A. Van Matre, Miss Lena Franche, Miss Bright, H. O. Mahon, B. Light, Gussie Johnson, Harry Johnson, Charles Clark, Tom O'Hara, Harry Martin, Oscar Cushman, Fred Green, Roy Green, L. P. Doolittle, Mr. Comar, Mr. Harwood, John Rifenberger, Oscar Webster.

A GARDEN PARTY.
A delightful garden party was given Thursday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willis, on Figueroa street, in honor of the two favorite singers, Misses Kittle Arline Loomis and Violet Langman, who both leave this week by the Santa Rosa for San Francisco. The young ladies were dressed in white, and made a pretty picture as they gracefully assisted Mrs. Willis in receiving. Tables were set about the lawn in cosy nooks and corners, where cards and other games were indulged in, while for those who preferred dancing an orchestra disported lively music in the parlors. Miss Loomis sang a beautiful contralto solo, accompanied by her sister on the guitar. She was compelled to perform to two encores. Miss Langman sang sweetly, and a pleasing duet was sung by Miss Loomis and Mr. Maynard. Later in the evening all repaired to the other side of the garden, where a choice menu was served, and each guest was presented with a hand-painted souvenir, the artistic work of Miss Loomis.

BIRTHDAY SURPRISE.
On Friday evening about twenty young people gathered at the residence of Mr. Tremble, in South Los Angeles, for the purpose of tendering Capt. Edward Tremble, the eldest son, a surprise party in honor of his birthday. It proved a complete surprise. The house was decorated with evergreens and flowers, and there were many remembrances from friends of gifts suitable to the occasion. No gift was more appreciated than the one presented by the Boys' Brigade, showing that their captain is held in high esteem by the boys of South Los Angeles, as well as by others. Refreshments were passed, and after an evening of enjoyment, the guests departed, wishing Capt. Tremble a long life of happiness.

JOLLY FOURTEEN COOKING CLUB.
The Jolly Fourteen Cooking Club met Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Edythe Hemphill, on Eighteenth street, and the next morning will be held at the home of Miss Georgia Rossier, on Main street. The young women are becoming excellent cooks. The club members are: Misses Annie Anderson, Clara Smith, Edythe Hemphill, Ruby Noyes, Georgia Rossier, Stella Vanice, Nellie Gowen, George Hobbs, Otis Noyes, Jesse Childress, Rea Smith, William Smith, George Hobbs, Otis Noyes, Ashton Wells, Charles Van Horne.

CHOICES LOS ANGELES.
Miss Katherine W. Kimball has decided to remain in Los Angeles, where she is so well and popularly known. Although Miss Kimball met with unusual favor in San Francisco musical circles, yet as this climate proves so much more desirable for singing, she has concluded to resume her work and teaching here, and will be at home to her friends at No. 1629 West Twenty-third street.

A DOUBLE SURPRISE.
A double surprise party occurred Tuesday evening, celebrating the twenty-first birthday anniversary of Mrs. G. H. Crawford and brother, W. G. Cornelius, at their home, No. 1119 Hill street. The evening was spent in music, conversation and those pleasant refreshments followed. Those present numbered: Mrs. E. E. Cornelius, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Westover, Mrs. G. H. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Nalle, Addie Lindsey, Dora Robert, Fannie Robert, Grace Westover, Daisy Cornelius, Maudie Lindsey, Will Galer, Dottie, Walter Cornelius.

FAREWELL SURPRISE.
Last Thursday evening the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Summerland, No. 229 Wilmington street, was the scene of a farewell surprise party given in honor of Miss Jessie Summerland. The program, which was excellently rendered, was as follows: Violin solo, H. Scheneman; vocal selection, Miss M. Beaver; piano selection, C. Blanchard; recitation, Miss W. Lowndes; piano solo, Miss G. Stoermer; vocal solo, Miss G. Stanley; vocal selection by request, W. Blenner; vocal selection by request, J. Llewellyn; vocal selection by request, Mrs. S. Dugan; finale, "The Girl from Catalina," (original) H. Scheneman, J. Codori, M. S. Mendelsohn.

At the conclusion of the program refreshments were served by Chaparral, A. Stoermer, N. Dold, J. Summerland and S. Dugan, after which games and dancing were enjoyed. Those present were in receipt of beautiful souvenirs.

The invited guests were: Misses Gussie Stoermer, Louise Scheneman, Ada Koefie, Gertrude Horgan, Sophie Brossmer, Annie Stoermer, Josie Smith, Fannie Lowe, Bessie Holbrook, Willie Lowndes, Ella Stone, Marguerite Weaver, Carmelita Hare, Minnie Mendelsohn, Grace Dugan, M. Drey, Sadie Flood, Lizzie Getz, Nettie Dold, Carrie Brossmer, Bessie Nels, Louise Cornelius, Olga Kause, Bessie Beaver, Katie Scheneman, Estela Sheldie, Florence Beaver, Marguerite Hare, Ella Rose, Edith Norvick, Mrs. T. Summerland, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Dugan, Mrs. Karstens, Messrs. Willie Ashley, Donald Stanbery, Abe Mendelsohn, Charles Blumenthal, William Brossmer, Clarence Blanchard, Dave Llewellyn, Louis Boutlier, Dave Lyon, Jack Fennell, Paul Smith, Theodore Summerland, W. J. Blenner, O. Cornelius, Tom Koefie, James Codori, M. F. Riley, Myer Mendelsohn, Harry Scheneman, Fred Maier, Joe Lyon, John Llewellyn, Lannie Mendelsohn, Eddie Zobelstein, D. T. Althouse, George Karstens, Manny S. Mendelsohn, R. Lewis.

COMING SOCIAL.
The members of Frank Bartlett Post and Corps will hold a social at their hall, No. 612 1/2 South Spring street, next Tuesday evening, to which they invite all friends to join in a good time. Refreshments will be served free.

BRIDGE-MOODY.
Mary Sevort Moody and Rush Vall Bridge were married on Wednesday last at the home of the bride, No. 1093 South Pearl street, Rev. Dr. Thomson performing the ceremony. They will be at home at No. 229 Bonnie Brae street Wednesdays after September 15.

STAMM-KATMEIER.
A. J. Stamm of this city was married August 26, in New York, to Alice Katmeier, and will return about September 15, to make his home here. Mr. Stamm proposes to work up his Philharmonic orchestral concerts again, and for that purpose has secured much new classical and popular music.

AN "AT HOME."
Invitations are out for an "at home," to be given next Thursday evening, by Miss Angela Anderson. As Miss Anderson is a great favorite in the city the event is eagerly anticipated.

ALFALFA LAY RIDE.
On Friday evening a merry party of young people gathered at the home of Miss Lilyon Seward, Magnolia and Laurel avenues, to celebrate the full of the moon and to participate in an alfalfa lay ride. The start was made at 8 o'clock on a large four-horse hay wagon for Verdugo Park, where dancing and singing passed the time until a late hour. A fine collation was served in the park, to which the young people did ample justice. Music was furnished by Messrs. Warner and Hannas. The merriest feature of the evening was some amusing tinhorn solos by W. C. Woodman and A. K. Millard. The party, chartered by Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Welfare, consisted of Misses Lilyon Seward, Grace Powers, May Austin, Mabel Earl, Clara March, Maud and Laura McFadden, Messrs. Will Woodman, Ed Carver, Charles Hansen, Russell Warner, Ben Powers, Albert Miller, Milo Hannas, D. Millard.

ANOTHER SURPRISE.
George Hobbs was happily surprised Friday evening by a gay party of young folks, who gathered at his home on Thirty-second street. Time passed enjoyably until a late hour, when refreshments were served. Among those present were: Misses Georgia Rossier, Ruby Noyes, Fannie Barber, Edythe Hemphill, Edith Barber, Clara South, Ethel Fraser, Angela Anderson, Grace Cressinger, Nettie Gowen, Stella Vanice, Messrs. Rea Smith, George Hobbs, Otis Noyes, Jesse Childress, Ross Smith, Edgar Sullivan, Edgar Miller, Fred Lenard, Edmund Tasker, Charles Van Horne, Malcolm Cleveland, Wallace Barber.

BOYLE HEIGHTS ENTERTAINMENT.
Miss Coral Z. Harrison gave a successful entertainment Friday evening at the Boyle Heights Methodist Episcopal Church, in behalf of the Ladies' Aid Society. There was a pleasing program, to which Miss Harrison contributed the recitations "Out of the Fire" and "How Persimmons Took Care of der Baby," rendering them especially well. "The Romance of a Hammock," by Z. Belle Ross; "Asking the Governor," by Master George Harrison; "The Mermaid," by little Pearl Pennyman, and "Auntie Doleful's Visit," by Mrs. Berger, in costume, were capably performed and heartily applauded. The vocal selections by the "Moloch 4" proved irresistible. A large number of Miss Harrison's friends from this side were present.

WEDNESDAY'S WEDDING.
Mr. and Mrs. Kremer have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Eda, to James W. Hellman on Wednesday next. The reception to be held at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the residence on Hope street, includes a long list of invited guests.

SILVER WEDDING.
A merry party of self-invited guests assembled at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. H. Hannas, on Iowa street, Station D, on Wednesday evening to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage. The tables were soon spread with refreshments, after which speeches, music and songs followed. There were several fine recitations by Miss Georgia Holley, an eight-year-old niece of Mrs. Hannas, and Master Glidden of Alhambra.

As the guests departed, leaving behind them substantial gifts of silver to testify their love and good will to those in whose honor they had assembled, they left with the feeling that they had enjoyed a delightful evening, and the wish was reiterated that life might be purer and sweeter as they bade adieu to the bride and groom. Among the guests were Mrs. Briggs, aged 83; Misses Holley and daughter, Hunt and daughter, Smith, Gilchrist, Patterson, Wilson and daughter, Golding, Glidden, Robinson, the Messrs. King, Hannas, Rasch, Messrs. Golding, Glidden, Briggs, Smith, Robinson, Wilson, Dresser, Hunt, Milo Hannas, Edmore Glidden.

NOTES AND PERSONALS.
Mr. and Mrs. George Steckel returned Tuesday after a six weeks' visit to the World's Fair. They are the only ones ever in love with Southern California.
